FRANK CASEY KILLED.

Conductor on Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston Freight in Rear End Collison at Charleroi.

CHARLEROI, PA., July 28.—(Special.)—A disastrous freight wreck occurred shortly before midnight on the Pittsburgh, Virginia & Charleston railroad, three miles north, in which one man was killed and another seriously injured. The dead man is:

FRANK CASEY, conductor of extra freight; resides on South Side, Pittsburgh.

W. F. ROBERTS of 2216 Sarah street, Pittsburgh, flagman of extra freight, suffered a long scalp wound, his right arm is hurt and his face bruised.

A heavily loaded extra freight, southbound, was on the track, when another freight crashed into the caboose. The crew of the second freight saw their danger in time and jumping, escaped with a few bruises.

The engine was demolished and was thrown wide ways across the track, blocking the entire division. The caboose and eight or ten cars were also destroyed and scattered over the tracks. Casey and Roberts were in the caboose, which was smashed to splinters.

Airship Inventor Dead.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., July 27.—Carl F. Klotz, to whom letters patent for an airship were recently granted, died here tonight of cancer of the stomach. He was a machinist, born in Germany, in 1845. He had invented a controllable ship, which he was to enter in the trials at St. Louis during the exposition. Local capitalists were interested and the machine was to have been built this year.

EVIDENCE AS FLIMSY AS A RAG HOLDS HIM

Feightley, the Ice Man, Still Kept in Prison.

POLICE REASONS ARE LAUGHABLE

Know He Is Not Achsah King's Murderer, Yet Keep on Sweating Him.

SHERLOCK HOLMES AS OUTCLASSED

Although the Pittsburgh detectives are satisfied that Bert Feightley, the ice man, is not the murderer of Achsah King, they still persist in holding him. Were it not for Philip Demmel, superintendent of the bureau of detectives, Feightley would probably have been released long before this. An abundance of evidence has been established for him that Feightley is not the murderer, but Demmel seems unable to comprehend it.

Many persons have been wondering just what evidence Superintendent Demmel had for ordering the arrest of Feightley. He had really no justifiable excuse for placing Feightley in the police station under suspicion of having committed a foul crime. Both Feightley and the King woman knew each other. They were raised together in McKeesport. There was nothing in common between them. Both had been under arrest before and were known to the police in this city and McKeesport.

A Wonderful Array of Reasons.

It has been learned that the following alleged reasons are the flimsy pretext Superintendent Demmel has for holding Feightley:

Because he was acquainted with the King woman and denied that fact when arrested, fearing that the woman had made an effort to implicate him in some misdeed, knowing that she was not above doing such a thing.

Because he slightly resembled the description of the man who was seen with her during the day of the murder, when as a fact he was not near her.

Because Mrs. Acheson said that the man who accompanied her sister to her house was an ice man. Mrs. Acheson knew Feightley in McKeesport. She said afterward that he was not the man who was with her sister at her house shortly before the murder.

Because Feightley had been arrested before.

Because Feightley might have jumped off the ice wagon when going to the ice plant from J. Cohen's store, at No. 21 Logan street, and killed Achsah King in Curran's saloon, when as a matter of fact he had no means of knowing where she was or any motive for killing her.

Sherlock Holmes Discounted.

Because he had his hair cut off Wednesday night in a Penn avenue barber shop, which, according to the conjecture of Superintendent Demmel was for the purpose of disguising himself.

Because the companion of Achsah King wore a blue-stripped shirt on the day of the murder, and a shirt with blue stripes was found among Feightley's other shirts at his room. This is a warning to several thousand men who wear blue-stripped shirts.

Because when arrested a knife was found on Feightley. He explained that he used it to repair harness and for general purposes. He was asked if he had another knife and he said he had not. Later a small penknife was found among his possessions at his room.

All these alleged theories have been exploded and still Superintendent Demmel is holding Feightley under the suspicion that he is the murderer of the King woman.

Demmel Has Other Theories.

But Superintendent Demmel has other reasons for holding Feightley. One of his strongest reasons is that the ice man passed Curran's saloon while on his ice wagon when going to the ice plant, at Second and Liberty avenues. The wagon passed Curran's place sometime before the murder was committed. At 5:05 Wednesday afternoon, when the murder was committed, Feightley was at the ice plant dripping with perspiration and unhitching the horses. Five of his fellow workmen saw him there.

At the time the wagon passed down Wylie avenue, Achsah King and her companion were drinking in Nill & Knee's saloon in Wylie avenue. There was no means of Feightly knowing where the woman was.

In spite of everything else, Superintendent Demmel seems to overlook the motive Feightley would have had for killing the King woman. She was nothing to him. They had nothing in common with each other.

In the history of their lives there was never any attachment existed between them. Still Superintendent Demmel ordered his Sherlocks to pounce down on him and place him under arrest.

Feightley's Trying Experience.

It was definitely learned yesterday that the detectives are certain that Feightley is not the man wanted for the murder. But he is still in the police station and it is said will be confined there until after the coroner's inquest is held and when that will be no one knows.

When Feightley was taken to the police station he had red cheeks. Now his skin is ashen from fright and the terrible "sweating" process that he has been compelled to undergo. He has been threatened and cross-examined until he has become terrified.

The detectives claim they have another clue they are working on that may lead to the arrest of the murderer of the King woman.

Double Tragedy in Missouri.

SPRINGFIELD, MO., July 27.—Charles Weyiey, aged 25, of Norwood, Mo., late last night shot and killed Miss Josephine Sheridan, his former sweetheart, at her home here, and then shot and killed himself. Up to a month ago the couple had been engaged to be married.

Cholera in Egypt.

CAIRO, EGYPT, July 27.—Fifty-two fresh cases of cholera and 38 deaths from the disease were reported in this city today. One English woman has been attacked by the scourge.

FOR MONTHS MISS M'ELHANEY WAS DAVE KYLE

Fishing Camp Episode Drives Her to Resume Life in Skirts.

FIGHTS AS A BOY, CRIES WHEN GIRL

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Wheeling, W. Va., July 27.—For four months Mabel McElhaney worked side by side with men in half a dozen different establishments, associated with boy companions, frequented the pool rooms, smoked cigarettes, indulged in all the modern slang and was known to the world as Dave Kyle.

The denouement came last night. She spent Saturday at the Central fishing camp, below Benwood, with some young men who knew her and who had their suspicions previously aroused by little acts which smacked of effiminacy. One of the young men rowed across the river with "Dave" to go in swimming. He disrobed, but "Dave" did not, explaining that he simply wanted to bathe his feet.

Mabel's arrest followed. She cried bitterly, the first time, according to her own story, since she adopted the garments of the sterner sex. Mrs. S. O. Boyce, wife of a prominent attorney of this city, had her sympathy aroused by the tears of the pale faced, delicately featured young man, and asked the officer what crime he had committed. When she learned the story she offered to take Mabel home and keep her there until other arrangements can be made.

Mabel was delighted and today she is contented and happy, and not at all anxious to resume the role she has been playing.

Mabel is not yet 19 and is pretty, vivacious and intelligent. She admits that while wearing the garments of her sex, she listened to the testimony in the Ellis Glenn trial at Parkersburg for two days, but she says the idea of donning male attire was not suggested by the Glenn case.

A daughter of John A. McElhaney of Bradford, Pa., she was left motherless at 13, and has since earned her own livelihood. She worked four months in Wheeling, not remaining long in any one position. She worked in a barroom, in a stamping factory, as a house painter, as a tin roofer and handling steel slabs in the Aetna Standard mill. Her last employment was as cabin boy on the steamer Ruth, which she left when she found her sex was suspected.

Mabel is a good boxer and had two fights while she was Dave Kyle. The tears flow freely now when Mabel talks, but they are not tears of regret for anything she has done, but the simple expression of relief from the constant strain she underwent during four months. She wore a neat shirt waist and skirt today, and her hair, long in front, is dressed in pompadour fashion.

SUICIDE OF AN ALIENIST.

Famous Insanity Expert Falls Victim of Strong Narcotics—Noted Author in His Specialty.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 27.—Dr. Eugene Grissom, once well known as an alienist and neurologist, committed suicide here today at his son's home, by sending a bullet through his brain. Dr. Grissom had been dejected and morose for several weeks and had become physically and mentally weakened from the use of strong narcotics.

He was a native of Granville, N. C., served on the confederate side until wounded during the civil war, and afterward was a member of the state legislature. For 21 years he was superintendent of the North Carolina insane asylum at Raleigh and gained a wide reputation as an alienist and lecturer. He was the author of "True and False Experts," a work devoted to showing the alleged inaccuracies of the expert testimony in insanity cases. Dr. Grissom was one time first vice president of the American Medical society and several times presiding officer of the Association of Superintedents of American Insane Asylums. He was a Mason of high degree, and 71 years of age.

A Carnegie Organ Dedicated.

Elaborate services were held yesterday evening in the St. Croation Roman Catholic church, in Maryland avenue, Millvale, at the dedication of the $5,000 organ presented to the church by Andrew Carnegie. The services were conducted by the Rev. Francis Glojmaric, pastor of the church. An elaborate musical program was rendered by Prof. Albert Sismore, the church organist; Prof. Louis Ingram, organist of St. Augustine's church of Pittsburgh, and his choir of 40 voices.

YESTERDAY'S HEAT COST THE LIVES OF THREE CHILDREN

Temperature Reached 91, but Sunday Cessation of Work Kept Fatalities Down.

CITIZENS KEPT COOL

As predicted in yesterday's Gazette, the mercury passed the 90 mark in local thermometers and the heat caused the deaths of three children. Owing to the Sunday suspension of work nearly all the residents of Pittsburgh were able to spend the day keeping cool, and all devices from electric fans to trolley rides were put in use. The prostrations were few and none, except the three cases, are likely to result seriously.

The Dead.

JOSEPH DAMAPTAN, 3 years old, of No. 1915 Sarah street, died of heat exhaustion yesterday morning.

HARRY EHEMENT, 1 year old, of No. 2509 Arlington avenue, died of heat prostration yesterday morning.

MICHAEL COHOLIC, 1 month old, of No. 2944 Smallman street, died of heat prostration last night.

That there were few prostrations from heat yesterday, notwithstanding the heat, is easily accounted for by the idleness of the mills and Sunday stoppage of work. There have been hotter days this summer, but yesterday did not fall far behind the hottest of the season in point of temperature.

No relief is likely to be furnished today. The weather bureau in Washington sent out the forecast that today and tomorrow would be fair, making no mention of the probable temperature, but to judge from the conditions in the far west, where the weather usually comes from, today's heat will equal yesterday's.

The lowest temperature of the day was 70 degrees, and that was at 6 a. m. From that hour on the mercury began to climb, surely and steadily until 1 p. m., when it reached the maximum, 91 degrees. At 2 the quicksilver column left the highest point and dropped very slowly indeed, perhaps a degree or less an hour, until 9 p. m. Then a breeze sprung up and the streets became cooler. The department of public works was heartily anathematized on account of the dust that swirled in clouds over the streets. The dust was felt particularly on lower Penn avenue, for the street there is covered with sand on account of the laying of street car tracks and the necessary repaving of the street.

Pittsburgh was about as hot as any other place, Cincinnati and Columbus temperature exceeding Pittsburgh's by only one degree. In the far west, in cities like Denver and Kansas City, it was also hot, only three or four degrees less than here.

COLLISION IS CAUSED BY FIVE DRUNKEN MEN

Place Obstructions on Track Because Cars Refuse to Stop at Signal Station.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 27.—An attempt by five men to wreck an incoming trolley car at the rifle range, a short distance north of this city on the Rochester & Irondequoit railway late tonight, resulted in a rear-end collision in which seven passengers were seriously and several others slightly injured.

Shortly before 10 o'clock car 457 left Summerville bound for the city heavily laden with passengers, with orders not to stop at the rifle range, which is a flag station only. As the car approached this point the motorman discovered an obstruction on the track, and brought his car to a stop just in time. The obstruction, which consisted of lengths of picket fencing, had been placed on the track by five men under the influence of liquor, because, as they said, they had attempted to flag other inbound cars without success, and determined to make it next time. While the crew of car 457 was trying to clear the track in order to proceed, car 454, also inbound, came along at a rapid speed and crashed into the rear of the car ahead.

BIG HOIST JUMPS TRACK.

Wind Snaps Chains and It Lunges Out Upon Car Ferry.

DETROIT, July 27.—As a result of a terrific stormy the Brown hoist, used to lift and carry heavy plates used in shipbuilding, lies on the deck of the Michigan Central car ferry Transport, at the Wyandotte shipyard, a total wreck, while the upper works of the car ferry are for the most part smashed to kindling wood. The Brown hoist is an immense piece of machinery, which runs on a track 40 feet high and about 500 feet long.

Just before the storm broke the hoist was safely anchored about 400 feet up the track with two chains. When the storm broke the chains snapped. The immense hoist ran to the end of the track and jumped 30 feet to the car ferry. The damage is estimated at $50,000.

MIRACULOUS CURES ARE AGAIN CREDITED TO RELIC OF ST. ANN

Lame Are Made to Walk, Blind to See and Dumb to Talk.

THE NOVENA OF PRAYER

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, July 27.—Miraculous, indeed, are the cures reported from the basement of the Church of St. Jean Baptiste, where a novena of prayer has just come to an end, and the noted relic of St. Ann was exposed. If the unequivocal statements of parents, relatives and neighbors may be believed, the lame, the blind and the halt can walk, see and talk—all the result of prayers and contact with the small bone to which miraculous powers are ascribed.

Thousands of pilgrims visited the shrine during the nine days of prayer, and scattered all over New York are grateful persons anxious to subscribe to the curative powers of the relic when accompanied by prayer and faith. These persons are all in earnest and not all are members of the Roman Catholic church.

With his crutches hanging near the altar in the Church of St. Jean Baptiste, Peter F. Meyer, 13 years old, of No. 127 Cedar street, was today on the recreation pier at the foot of Barrow street, playing like other children.

"His recovery is entirely due to the relic of St. Anne," Nicholas W. Skelly, the lad's uncle, said. "Peter was coming up stairs with some groceries one day last November and twisted his left leg. He was in the hospital eight weeks and nearly seven months in bed. Five operations were performed and pieces of the leg bones were removed. Peter went up to the church on Thursday night and again Friday and Saturday night. When he got home on Saturday night he had no crutches with him, for he left them in the church, and today he is walking as well as I do."

"God laid a cross upon me and I have borne it for years," Mrs. Thomas Walsh said today, and she looked at her daughter, Teresa, nine years old, running around the room. "The child has suffered from diseases of the spine and hip ever since she was 18 months old. For nearly seven years and a half her little body was strapped to a cuirass.

"Her father took Teresa up to the church Saturday morning," said Mrs. Walsh, "and the priest took Teresa out of her father's arms and laid her on the altar, then turned and handed her back. Teresa could walk."

And many similar stories were told in New York today.

STABS FATHER-IN-LAW.

Jesse Dray Comes to Rescue of Sick Woman and Is Compelled to Use Knife.

STEUBENVILLE, O., July 27.—(Special.)—This evening at the fishing camp of the Dray and Wagner families on the Ohio shore near Browns Island, Abbie Wagner was fatally stabbed by Jesse Dray, his son-in-law, who escaped. Wagner struck his wife, who is an invalid and a paralytic.

Dray took him to task for it and Wagner seized a club and struck Dray, knocking him down, then jumped on him and beat him. Dray seized a case knife and stabbed Wagner.

BLUE FOR CORONATION.

Opinion Expressed That King Edward Can Only Receive His Crown in An Invalid Chair.

LONDON, July 27.—The Standard this morning, referring to the health of King Edward, expresses the opinion that he will only be able to attend the coronation in a bath chair.

COWES, ISLE OF WIGHT, July 27.—King Edward is much better but is not yet able to walk or stand. Yesterday for the first time he used his new invalid chair, which enables him to move himself about.

OYSTER BAY STIRRED UP.

Sunday Opening of the Postoffice Excites the Sabbatarians.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 27.—The postoffice at Oyster Bay was opened for an hour today, for the first time on Sunday in the history of the village. The president did not avail himself of the opportunity of having his mail taken to him.

The opening of the office created a commotion among some of the people. The Rev. Alex G. Russell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, sharply criticised those who began the movement.

Strike for Tip Privilege.

TRIESTE, AUSTRIA, July 27.—The waiters in the cafes and restaurants here have gone on strike because of the refusal of their employers to grant their demands for regular wages and the abolition of tips.

BRIDE AGED 19 KILLS HUSBAND, THEN HERSELF

Short and Apparently Happy Married Life Ends Tragically.

NO CAUSE IS KNOWN FOR INSANE CRIME

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Woodsfield, O., July 27.—While laboring under a fit of temporary insanity this morning, Mrs. Everett Spence, a bride of less than two months, shot and killed her husband with a revolver while he was lying in bed, and then rushed into the yard and committed suicide with the same weapon.

The tragedy occurred at the home of William Spence, father of the young husband, who resides half a mile from Woodsfield. About daylight Mr. Spence heard a shot in the room occupied by his son, and one of his daughters rushed into the room and found her brother bleeding from a wound in the right temple, while the young wife was calmly reloading the revolver.

The sister wrenched the weapon from Mrs. Spence and laid it on the bed. Then she leaned over her brother, who was trying to speak. The young husband told his sister he knew of no cause for the tragedy, and just as he was gasping out his last breath, his bride seized the weapon and rushed into the yard. A shot was heard a moment later, and Mrs. Spence was found lying dead, with a bullet hole in the temple.

The young couple lived happily together for the brief space of their married life and seemed most devoted to each other. Consequently the only possible theory on the tragedy is insanity. Mrs. Spence did not utter a sound after she had slain her husband, and no one heard a noise in the room before the shot was fired. The young husband was still in bed when discovered dying, and it is not known whether he was sleeping or not when the shot was fired.

Both young people were well known and popular here, where the wife's father, Martin Baker, resides. Mrs. Spence was 19 years old and her husband was 21.

BOERS UNCONQUERED.

Though South Africa Is Under One Flag, says Botha, the Country Is Their Inheritance.

CAPE TOWN, July 27.—In a recent speech at Paarl, Cape Colony, Gen. Botha said that all of South Africa is under one flag but that the Boers had not been vanquished. Darkness is in front of them, he said, but faith and hope would guide them through it. Africa is their fatherland, their birthright and their inheritance.

LONDON, July 27.—Gen. Lord Methuen, who was wounded and captured by the Boers, but subsequently released, and who arrived in England early this month, has undergone a successful operation for the extraction of bullets from his leg.

THE POPE CORDIAL.

Sends by Bishop O'Gorman a Very Complimentary Letter to President Roosevelt.

ROME, July 27.—The letter which Bishop Thomas O'Gorman of Sioux Falls, S. D., who left Rome yesterday, bears from the pope to President Roosevelt, thanks the president for the congratulations and gifts presented by him to the pope and begs him to accept in return a souvenir of the pontiff's good will.

The letter also expresses satisfaction with the result of the negotiations carried on by Judge William H. Taft, governor of the Philippines, in which the pope says he has augmented his affection for the United States.

Church Corner Stone Laid.

BEAVER, PA., July 27.—(Special.)—The corner stone of the First Church of Christ was laid this afternoon in the presence of a large assemblage. Addresses were made by the Rev. J. M. Kersey, ex-president of Bethany college, and by the pastor, the Rev. W. H. Fields. The structure will be buff brick with a seating capacity of 600, and will cost $15,000.

Seniors Have Good Season.

VICTORIA, B. C., July 27.—The sealing schooner City of San Diego has returned from Copper Island, with 621 skins. She reports the Oscar and Hattie with 580; South Bend, 280, and Gascoe, 600. The Saucy Lass, the other schooner of the Copper Island fleet, has not been reported, and there is some anxiety for her.

FOURTH VICTIM OF AVENGERS OF WILMOTH'S DEATH

The Fugitive Supposed to Be Lancaster Brought to Bay, Riddled With Bullets and Then Hanged.

BLACKS QUIETLY ARMING FOR BLOODY RETALIATION

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Elkins, W. Va., July 27.—With the killing of another negro, said to be the actual slayer of Chief of Police Bud Wilmoth of Wemelsdorf, at a late hour last night, the murder is fully avenged. Three dead negroes and another seriously wounded tell the story of the anger of the whites over the murder, but another danger now menaces.

The blacks are said to be quietly arming and holding meetings to plan revenge upon the citizens who killed three of their race. They claim to know nearly everybody who participated in the lynchings. The state authorities at Charleston have taken cognizance of the situation by preparing for such an emergency as may arise through a concerted move by the blacks.

At the same time the murder and the exciting subsequent events are being thoroughly investigated.

The posse of citizens who have been hunting with rifles and bloodhounds the actual murderer ever since the night of the crime came upon the negro supposed to be Lancaster, late last night in the mountains about 15 miles northwest of Beverly and a desperate fight followed, the fugitive apparently having determined to sell his life dearly. He had confessed his guilt to a negro, who gave the clue to his pursuers. With one arm broken, he fired at least 50 shots while holding at bay the determined mob. Many bullets struck him, but none in a vital spot.

When he fell the mob rushed forward and poured more lead into his prostrate form. A rope was procured and the body was hanged to a tree, and upon his clothing was pinned a placard bearing the inscription:

THE DAYS OF THE
HATED NEGROES
ARE ENDED.

The real name of the dead negro is not known, and probably will never be disclosed, as the posse so mutilated his body that his features are scarcely recognizable. He successfully eluded two posses, and when cornered fought desperately.

His case is likened here to that of Tracy, the western desperado. Every negro within a radius of 10 miles of Womelsdorf has now left. One dead negro and the injured man were admittedly innocent of the killing of Wilmoth.

TRAINING NATIVES FOR THE TEACHING OF THEIR YOUTH

Commissioner Moses at Manila Intends to Stop Importation of American Educators.

AN ANTI-FRIAR MEETING

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Manila, July 27.—Commissioner Bernard Moses, head of the department of public instruction for the Philippine islands, is perfecting plans for the organization of a college in Manila for the training of Filipino teachers. His plans provide for the instruction of the children in the morning by Filipino teachers and in the afternoon by Americans.

Commissioner Moses' object is to fit Filipinos for the task American teachers are now performing, it being considered inadvisable to continue to import and maintain American teachers. The plans will later be extended to other parts of the island.

The anti-Friar demonstration which the municipal government had been informed was to be held here today, proved to be unimportant. The police forbade the holding of a procession and the reserves were assembled to maintain order.

The leaders of the movement conducted a meeting in the Zorilla theater, but no disorder occurred. At the conclusion of the meeting, which was not largely attended, owing to the storm which prevailed, the crowd dispersed quietly.

PROSPECTS FOR PEACE.

Colombian Government and Revolutionary Junta in New York Trying to Get Together.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 27.—Renewed efforts are making here for an understanding between the Colombian government and the revolutionary junta in New York, that will result in a termination of hostilities. Former attempts in this direction failed because the government regarded the demands of the junta as preposterous and refused to accede to them.

Gen. Vargas-Santos, one of the leaders of the revolution, is now in New York. The scene of hostilities in Colombia is now said to be confined to the isthmus of Panama, where the government has about 7,000 trained soldiers and the revolutionists about 4,000 men. They are all veterans in the service and a battle between the two armies, it is said, would be sure to result in a severe loss of men.

EUROPE STORM TOSSED.

Cyclone in Belgium Damages Town of Liege and Blocks Canal Navigation by Fallen Trees.

LONDON, July 27.—The gale, which prevailed in England Saturday caused great destruction to crops throughout the United Kingdom. Incoming steamers report terrific weather on the Atlantic. The rough weather continued around the British coasts Sunday evening and has been general through Europe.

A cyclone occurred in the Liege district of Belgium, Saturday. Navigation of the Leige and Maestrichmt canal was stopped by fallen trees, and most of the crops were destroyed or hopelessly damaged. Enormous injury was done in the town of Liege. Many persons were injured in a chapel by falling tiles and chimneys.

SHOT BY STRAY BULLET.

Angry Merchant at Springfield, O., Kills Wrong Woman.

SPRINGFIELD, O., July 27.—Mrs. William Gebauer, wife of a shoe merchant, was shot and killed today by a stray bullet fired by Homer Seeford, who was intent on shooting a Mrs. Fleck, whom he was following home from church.

Mrs. Fleck and Seekford recently quarreled. Seekford fired two shots at Mrs. Fleck, neither of which struck her, both going wild, and the second struck Mrs. Gebauer. A crowd chased Seekford into a barn, where he was rescued by the police.

OUTSIDERS INVADE BEERMEN'S PICNIC AND FIGHT RESULTS

August Hoffman Sent to His Home Unconscious and May Die.

JOHN KING LOSES AN EYE

As a result of a row at what was known as a beermen's picnic, at a place called Dewey's grove, at the end of the Millvale street car line, August Hoffman lies at his home in a serious condition and may die from his injuries. John King, who also lives nearby, is blinded in one eye for life.

The picnic was an all-day affair and beer was plentiful. At about 6 p. m. many of the merrymakers were in a fighting mood. On Hoffman and King seemed to focus the anger of the whole crowd, as it appearently did its best to put them out of the way.

One of the crowd seized a heavy beer mallet and struck King over the right eye, almost tearing the eye from its socket and permanently destroying the sight. At the same time another of the crowd threw a rock at Hoffman, striking him on the head and inflicting a scalp wound, which was followed up by a blow behind the ear with a beer bottle.

Hoffman was carried to his home, where his friends labored over him for an hour before he came to. He was still living at a late hour last night. Others of the crowd who took part in the affair were more or less injured, but dragged themselves away. The trouble is said to have been caused by a number of outsiders, who intruded on the picnic.

HUSBAND AND WIFE ALLEGED BIGAMISTS

Woman Is Under Arrest, But Man Makes a Fight and Escapes to Mountains.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CUMBERLAND, MD., July 27.—William R. Lewis and wife are both charged with bigamy. It is alleged that they were married at Harrisburg, Pa., each having been previously married.

The woman was arrested at Winchester, W. Va., yesterday afternoon, but when an attempt was made to apprehend the man, a fight ensued, a number of shots being exchanged. Although severely wounded Lewis managed to escape to the mountains.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHANGE.

Tenure of First and Second Readers Limited to Three Years.

NEW YORK, July 27.—(Special.)—"I have resigned cheerfully and gladly, in obedience to the expressed will of the church. I have no clearly defined idea of my future, nor can I now even outline my plans. I shall now, as heretofore, hold myself subject to the demands of this work, and shall endeavor to do my duty in whatever lines it may develop."

This was the statement of Mrs. Augusta Stetson, first reader of the First church of Christ, Scientist, after she had formally bowed to the will of Mrs. Mary Baker G. Eddy and resigned her position. It was made at the conclusion of a meeting when the members unanimously ratified the action of its board of trustees, limiting the term of office of its first and second readers to three years. At the same time, Edwin F. Hatfield, formally resigned as second reader.

Mrs. Stetson's retirement from the highest post in the church organization completes a period of 16 years of ceaseless effort, during which her influence and power in the Christian Scientist church has grown until it was generally regarded as second only to that of Mrs. Eddy.

New York's Welcome Lukewarm.

NEW YORK, July 27.—At a meeting of the Central Federated Union of New York today a communication from the Federated Trades council of Milwaukee requesting co-operation for independent political action with a view of coming together in a national movement was read. The communication was not warmly received, but a committee was appointed to ascertain further facts about the proposed new party.

RIVAL CROWDS KEEP THE PARIS POLICE BUSY

Clerical Demonstration Half Captured By Government's Friends.

WOMEN LEAD IN RIOTING

A Group of Ladies Nearly Mobbed by Members of Their Own Sex—Appearance of Priests Provokes Jeers and Fighting.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Paris, July 27.—The demonstration made today in connection with the decree of Premier Combes, ordering the closing of the congregationist schools, proved to be quite as much of a manifestation in support of the government as of opposition to its anti-clerical measures. The crowd which gathered in the Place de la Concorde numbered 15,000 persons, while as many more thronged the Champs Elysees.

The clerical and anti-clerical forces about equally divided the gatherings. The former were distinguishable by the red, white and blue paper flowers which they wore, while the latter sported red eglantines.

Though many fights occurred, they never became general, nor was any person seriously injured. An imposing force of police and mounted municipal guards had much trouble in keeping the manifestants constantly moving, and at times they were forced to charge to prevent the crowd becoming too dense. On the whole, the crowds were good-natured and mainly confined themselves to shouting "Liberty! Liberty!" "Long Live the Sisters!" and "We Want the Sisters!" to which the anti-clericals replied, "Vive Republique!" and "Down with the Priests!"

Fought Over the Priests.

The occasional appearance of a priest was the signal for much hooting, and several fights were due to their presence.

A striking feature of the manifestations was the large number of women, many of them well-dressed, who actively participated. Nor were these all clerical in their sympathies, for the anti-clerical women also were out in strong force, and they occasionally made things lively for their clerical sisters, whom the police had some difficulty in protecting. In one instance a detachment of mounted guards had to rescue three well-dressed ladies from the hands of a group of Socialist women who were bent on mobbing them.

The clericals made several attempts to reach the Place Beauveau, on which the Elysee and the ministry of the interior are situated, but were prevented by strong cordons of police and municipal guards, which were stationed at all the approaches to prevent demonstrations in front of these buildings.

Thirty Ladies Nearly Mobbed.

The demonstrations culminated when a group of 30 ladies, some in carriages and some on foot, headed by Mesdames Reille, de Mun, Cibiel and de Pommerol, attempted to reach the ministry of the interior to present to Premier Combes a petition on behalf of the sisters. The police refused to allow them to pass. Subsequently the clericals made an angry rush upon the cordon guarding the Avenue Gabrielle and the soldiers had to use the butts of their guns to keep back the crowd.

Another violent incident occurred on the Champs Elysees, where the crowd began throwing the small iron chairs bordering the sidewalks among the feet of the horses of the mounted guards. One horse fell, injuring his rider. A number of prominent Nationalists, including Deputies Millevoye and Auffray and several municipal councillors, were conspicuous in the crowd and were much cheered by their followers and hooted by the anti-clericals.

At 7 o'clock this evening a slight shower hastened the dispersal of the manifestants. About 100 arrests were made.

CASTORIA.

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

A NEW DISCIPLE ARISES IN PLACE OF JOHN HENRY FRANZ.

The martyrdom of John Henry Franz was not in vain. Suppressed by the strong arm of the law because of his attempt to change the style of men's attire, he was compelled to sign a pledge to leave the question of dress reform alone and busy himself in taking care of his family. Franz's ardent advocation of women's attire for the men of the present day seems to have struck a responsive chord in other Allegheny hearts, for yesterday another man was arraigned before Magistrate Henry Hunneshagen charged with masquerading in a shirt waist and a rainy-day skirt, with a picture hat and all the other necessary appurtenances of a stylishly dressed woman.

Frederick H. Birch of No. 234 Carroll street is the latest victim of the well-known prejudice of the Allegheny police against reform of any kind. He was tripping lightly down Robinson street yesterday afternoon shortly after 2 o'clock, when Special Officer Frank Lee caught sight of him and as Birch is only a novice in the reform game he failed to pass muster as a woman and was taken to Central station. At the hearing yestrday he got off with a reprimand because of his previous good conduct and his plea that the affair was only a joke. Franz's mania for female attire also originated in a joke, but it lasted 19 years.

POLICEMAN'S SHOT MAY COST A LIFE

EDWARD KERCHLIGEN PROBABLY FATALLY INJURED.

Man, Whose Bullet Struck Him, Has Not Been Arrested and Was on Duty Last Night—Officer Says Shot was Accidental.

The McKees Rocks police force is mixed up in another shooting that threatens to result fatally. It is only a few months ago since one of its officers was arrested for murder. At the time of the killing Chief of Police Samuel Davis refused to allow him to be arrested, but finally had to yield. The man was afterward acquitted of the charge.

On Saturday night Edward Kerchligen of Charleroi was shot and probably fatally wounded by Officer James Hogan in Island avenue, and is now in a critical condition at the McKees Rocks hospital. The affair is shrouded in mystery, and the policeman asserts that the shot was accidental. At any rate, the bullet entered young Kerchligen's mouth and lodged at the base of the brain, and the hospital surgeons have not yet been able to remove it.

Policeman Hogan has not only not been locked up, but was actually on duty last night, although his victim lay at the point of death.

It is said that the injured man, in company with several friends, were making a round of the saloons in the Island avenue district. They went into the bar of the Hotel Brady, and, it is alleged, created quite a disturbance when they were refused drinks.

The proprietor, Frank Brady, was compelled to use force in evicting them, and during the scrimmage, broke his right hand on the jaw of Edward Nolan, who was apparently the leader of the crowd.

As soon as Brady got the men out he started on a hunt for a policeman, and meeting Officer James Hogan, both started after the crowd. The officer overtook them at the corner of Island avenue and Bradley street, and placed Nolan under arrest. The other members of the party began to rush the officer, and, so it is claimed, tried to take the prisoner away from him.

Hogan ordered them to stand back, and when they refused, he pulled out his revolver, which was discharged, the bullet hitting Kerchligen in the mouth. The officer says the shot was accidental.

Hogan let the prisoner go, and picking up Kerchligen, carried him to the hospital, where it was found that the bullet had passed through the tongue and was lodged near the base of the brain.

Nolan was rearrested yesterday morning and placed in the borough lockup, pending an investigation.

Officer Hogan was on his beat last night, and Chief Samuel Davis stated that he would stay on, as far as he was concerned. Hogan has a good reputation.

Jewish Chautauqua Officers.

TOO MUCH TALKING RILED M'ALEESE

MAMIE WEBER BOASTED OF HER SPEAKEASY PROTECTION.

Result Was That She Was Suddenly Raided Yesterday Morning and What Her Fate Will Be This Morning Has Kept Her Guessing.

Because she talked too freely about her speakeasy and the protection she supposed it was receiving at the hands of the police, Mamie Weber of No. 538 Fourth avenue, was arrested about 10 o'clock yesterday morning by Police Inspector Fred Will and locked up at Central police station, charged with keeping a disorderly house. This was done on the order of Superintendent of Police John McAleese. Yesterday afternoon the woman was liberated on a forfeit to appear at a hearing this morning before Magistrate Bernard McKenna.

Saturday night Mamie boasted to a visitor of the police protection she received through the bolting establishment she buys her beer from. She said that all visitors were safe at her place and from all appearances they were. This woman said she was getting ready to furnish more rooms, on account of the lucrative business she was doing, and that the receipts showed $80 a day at present. She talked very freely. This freedom of speech came to the knowledge of Supt. McAleese when he arrived at his office yesterday morning. Inspector Fred Will was immediately delegated to place her under arrest.

It was too early in the day for visitors to be present so only Mamie was put under arrest. Later in the day a friend of hers came to her rescue. When she left the police station she met a reporter in Sixth avenue. She said:

"I conducted my place quietly and thought I was all right. I told my customers so. The police know where I buy my beer and I thought the beer men stood ace high. It was not my intention to boast about the protection, but only to assure customers they were safe in my place. I don't know what will happen to me at the hearing in the morning."

"Black Jack" Killed Again.

EL PASO, TEX., July 27.—"Black Jack" McDonald, a noted desperado, was shot and killed in his saloon at Juarez, Mexico, late today, by an American whose name is unknown. The fight resulted from a game of dice in which "Black Jack" and three Americans were engaged. Two of the Americans died. The other is held.

MURDER MYSTERY MAY BE SOLVED

MAN WHO BOUGHT FALSE MUSTACHE IS SUSPECTED.

His Alleged Victim Had Been Accused by Homicide's Sister of Attacking Her. Accused Man Under Police Surveillance.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CLEVELAND, O., July 27.—The astuteness of Miss Margaret Hinds, a saleswoman in a hair store, may lead to the solving of the mystery surrounding the murder Wednesday night of J. F. Lyman, a mail clerk, who was shot at his door.

All those who saw the murderer said he had a prominent black mustache. After the police had investigated many clues, a newspaper reporter who had visited various hair stores discovered that a young man had bought at one of them a false mustache on Wednesday afternoon before the murder. The description by Miss Hinds of the man who bought the mustache, was similar to that of Frederick Schauffler, whose young sister told the police on Friday that Lyman had attacked her two years ago.

She had told her brothers, Frederick and Charles, of the assault a few days before the murder. Miss Hinds was taken to the store where Schauffler was employed, and picked him out of the dozen or more employes in the place as the man who, she said, had purchased the mustache from her. Henry Ames, who fitted the mustache, also thought Schauffler was a man with whom he had dealt.

Although Schauffler denied that he killed Lyman, when he was taken before the police and coroner, he gave an unsatisfactory account of his movements on the night of the murder. He said he went to the theater, but he could not remember what sort of hat he wore or give the name of a single person he had met there and who could prove they had seen him.

Schauffler has not been arrested, but he is under police surveillance until he completes his testimony before the coroner.

BOYS WIN STRIKE.

Chicago Messengers See the Big Boss and He Grants Increase.

CHICAGO, July 27.—The strike of the Illinois District Telegraph Company's messenger boys, which since last Friday has hampered the telegraph companies in the delivery of their messages and caused great annoyance to brokers and business men throughout the city, was settled tonight. W. J. Lloyd, president of the company, arrived at Chicago from Texas tonight and at once received a committee from the striking messengers.

This conference resulted in an adjustment of the differences, and the night messengers returned to their work at midnight. The day boys will report for work in the morning. By the settlement the boys will receive increased wages and extra pay for overtime.

CRISIS IS NOW.

Gen. Fitzhugh Lee Says Cubans Must Come Up to Mark.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., July 27.—Gen. Fitzhugh Lee said tonight:

"I believe that the crisis in Cuban affairs is now. The Cubans were promised an independent government, and they have it. Now they will have to prove that they can give security to property and maintain order in the island. If they do not come up to the mark the island must become either a part of the United States or a dependency of this country."

Third Victim of Doudna Wreck.

ZANESVILLE, O., July 27.—(Special.)—William Lightizer, commissioner of Morgan county, died tonight, being the third victim of the Doudna wreck. C. L. Bailey of Marietta and Robert James of Pennsville are not expected to survive the night.

'SQUIRE CREELMAN'S TURTLES ARE WEATHER PROPHETS.

Justice of the Peace Samuel Creelman of Wilkinsburg has two pet land turtles that are interesting. They have been with him for five years and on account of their seeming ability to give warning of approaching storms are highly prized. They have free access to the 'squire's back lawn and when a thunderstorm is due they can be seen with their heads erect crossing and re-crossing the yard.

What they subsist upon is a mystery, but it is supposed they feed on insects. Along about the first of November they seek winter quarters and are piloted to the cellar. Once there they are seen no more until the following spring. They manage to bury themselves in such a manner that finding them during the winter months is out of the question.

They always make their appearance in the spring before the first thunderstorm and are then given the freedom of the back yard, where they remain during the summer.

When lowering clouds cover the sky on a lawn fete afternoon and the young women of Wilkinsburg are in fear of spoiling their light dresses they repair to 'Squire Creelman's back yard and watch the turtles. If the procession is marching back and forth across the yard they telephone their beaux that it's going to rain and they will have to come to the house.

ATLANTIC COAST RAILROAD STOCK BOOMED BY DEAL

Rumored Absorption of Louisville & Nashville Sends Prices Skyward.

STORY LOOKS PLAUSIBLE

Would Give System Practically Complete Control of Territory Southeast of Missouri—Knocks Out Alleged Deal With Southern.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

Baltimore, July 27.—It is impossible to obtain an authoritative expression of opinion on the rumor that negotiations are pending looking to the absorption by the Atlantic Coast line of the Louisville & Nashville railroad, which is controlled by J. Pierpont Morgan & Co. The effect of the rumor, however, has caused an advance of 19½ points in the stock during the past 10 days.

The report that the Coast Line Company will get the Louisville & Nashville has been freely discussed in financial circles here, and the general impression prevails that it is well founded.

"I think Mr. Morgan has already practically turned the road over to the coast line," said a member of one of the leading banking firms. "The two roads do not parallel anywhere, and have a physical connection at Augusta, Ga., through the Georgia railroad, which runs from Atlanta to Augusta, and which is leased jointly by them.

"Such a deal would eliminate that hostility in Tennessee and Kentucky which has been aroused by the rumor that the Louisville & Nashville will be merged with the Southern railway. These roads parallel and are competitors in both states, and following the report Gov. McMillin of Tennessee has threatened to call a special session of the legislature to pass a law that would prevent a merger. It is thought that when Mr. Morgan purchased the Louisville & Nashville he had in view its transfer to the Coast Line.

"Morgan & Co. manage the Southern Railway and have been working in complete harmony with the Coast Line. The absorption of the Louisville & Nashville would give the Coast Line control of the railroad situation southeast of the Mississippi river."

The outstanding stock of the Louisville & Nashville amounts to $60,000,000 and if the plan of Morgan & Co. to pay $150 a share for it is carried out, $90,000,000 will be required to complete the deal.

In round numbers the combined mileage of the Coast Line and the Louisville & Nashville is 9,400.

Henry Walters and Michael Jenkins, who control the affairs of the Coast Line are out of the city. Mr. Walters is thought to be in New York and would likely conduct the negotiations with Mr. Morgan or his representative. Mr. Jenkins left Baltimore Thursday with his family for the White Mountains. Mr. Walters is vice president of the Coast Line Railroad Company and president of the parent company. Mr. Jenkins is a director of the former and vice president of the latter. Waldo Newcomer, another Coast Line official, is away on his vacation.

LABOR LEAGUE STILL ENGAGES IN POLITICS

Declines to Indorse a Legislative Candidate on Union Question. Kick from L. A. 300.

The United Labor league of Western Pennsylvania in regular bi-monthly session last night refused to indorse the candidacy of John Yellig, candidate of the Citizens' party for member of the Pennsylvania legislature from the Fifth district. The matter came to an issue in this way: Formal notification was received that Mr. Yellig is a candidate There was talk of the notification being received and filed, but no motion to this effect before a delegate proposed that Mr. Yellig be indorsed by the league. A close vote on this decided against it.

Chairman William Boate of the league said afterward in relation to the action: "It is not a repudiation by the league of the Citizens' party. The only question that we deal with, in relation to political candidates, is as to whether or not they are union men in good standing. There was a question as to Mr. Yellig, although to the best of my information, he still carries a full membership card in the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers."

The league received and ordered filed a protest from the Window Glass Workers' association, Local Assembly No. 300, Knights of Labor, against its recent indorsement of Joseph A. Armstrong as a legislative candidate on the South Side. Mr. Armstrong has been an executive board member of the rival organization of the Window Glass Workers, the so-called L. A. 300, which is affiliated with the Parsons wing of the Knights of Labor, which lost the last decision on the question of authority in the order in the supreme court of the District of Columbia.

A committee composed of Michael O'Sullivan of the sheet metal workers, H. W. Leghleitner of the ornamental iron workers and F. E. Smith of the painters, was appointed to investigate a report, that people detained at the Clairmont workhouse are being sent to a nearby factory to work.

The league meeting listened to a speech by J. W. Slayton of New Castle, Socialist candidate for governor.

ALL FOR A DIME.

One Man Shot and Ambulance Carrying Him Is Upset—One or Other Causes His Death.

LOUISVILLE, KY., July 27.—A shooting affray over the theft of a dime, followed by an accident to an ambulance bearing one of the victims to a hospital, tonight resulted in the death of one man and the wounding of two others. The dead man is George Seaboldt and the wounded are James Clark and William Seaboldt.

Clark, who is a machinist, sent his boy to a store with 10 cents, but the lad was held up and robbed by one of the Seaboldts. Seaboldt was shot through the right lung, but it is not known whether his death resulted from the wound or from the injuries received in the collision of the ambulance with the street car.

AMES AT MINNEAPOLIS.

Accused Chief Keeps Out of Way, But Wife Says He Will Appear.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., July 27.—Under indictments that have failed of service for more than two weeks, Police Superintendent Fred W. Ames was today seen here. A friend shook hands with him in a railway station in St. Paul this morning and later the superintendent was seen in Minneapolis in a carriage with his private secretary, E. E. Wheelock.

Up to midnight he had not been located. Search for him was futile, and those who are believed to know of his whereabouts declined to talk. His wife declared, however, that he would be on hand tomorrow ready to accept service under any warrane that may be pending against him.

HABEAS CORPUS FIRST RESORT

ATTEMPT TO BE MADE TO RELEASE WEST VIRGINIA MINERS.

Secretary Wilson Denies That Those Convicted Disobeyed Judge Jackson's Injunction—Situation Among Anthracite Men Declared to be Unchanged.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., July 27.—At the mine workers national headquarters it wa sannounced today that no time would be lost in pushing the habeas corpus proceedings for the release of member of the organization arrested under the edict of Judge Jackson of the district court at Parkersburg.

According to Secretary Wilson not one of the men arrested was proved to have made any speeches, inflammatory or otherwise, after Judge Jackson's restraining order was issued.

"The injunction was issued on June 19," said Mr. Wilson, "and the meeting complained of was held the next night. 'Mother' Jones was the only speaker, and none of the men arrested said a word publicly to the miners. The only thing proved against them was that they applauded the remarks of 'Mother' Jones. They were arrested the moment the meeting was over, so that they had no chance to speak if they had wanted to do so."

WILKESBARRE, PA., July 27.—The beginning of the eleventh week of the anthracite miners' strike finds apparently no change in the situation, although the rumor has been revived that an effort will me made some day this week on the part of one of the large companies, to start up one of their collieries.

At strike headquarters the belief is as strong as ever that the operators cannot resume, and that it is idle talk to even suggest such a thing. President Mitchell simply says that the situation is about the same and that the strikers are as firm as ever. A great deal of telegraphic correspondence passed today between Wilkesbarre, Indianapolis and the headquarters of the United Mine workers in West Virginia, the nature of which Mr. Mitchell would not make public.

Three hundred delegates, representing the 10,000 Polish and Lithunian residents of the Wyoming valley, met in convention here today and after indorsing the strike appointed a committee of 10 to visit New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Buffalo and other large cities and solicit aid from the Polish and Lithunian people for their countrymen now on strike.

BOY WAS DROWNED IN THE ALLEGHENY

James Dodds of Sharpsburg Sank While Swimming and His Body Has Not Been Found.

James Dodds, 11 years old of Sharpsburg, was drowned while swimming in the Allegheny river near Guyasota yesterday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock. The boy was an orphan, and he and his two sisters lived with their grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Lieberum, on North Canal street, near Twenty-first street, Sharpsburg.

He had been forbidden to go in swimming in the river, but persisted in spite of the danger. He drowned in sight of several other boys who were, however, too far away to save him.

The place where the accident happened is much frequented by boys from this part of Sharpsburg, and is said to be perfectly safe, having a level bottom, but since the boy went down, although a thorough search has been made, no sign can be found of his body. At about 3:30 yesterday afternoon young Dodds was seen by a party of boys on the beach running toward the river and he appeared to be much overheated.

When he reached a place near Tibby Bros.' Glass works at Guyasota, he stripped and plunged into the water, and soon afterward his cries were heard by a party of boys, and it was seen that he was drowning.

James Smith, one of the boys who heard his cries, started to swim toward him, but reached him just as he went down for the third and last time. A search was at once started for the boy's body, which is being carried on by the dead boy's uncle, Edward Lieberum, who learned of the accident about 4 p. m., but as yet nothing has been seen of the body.

LIVED 130 YEARS.

Death in San Francisco Native of India Who Believed He Was Once a Prince.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—Aupi Mam Mari, a native of India, who has resided in this city as far back as the memory of the white man runs, is dead, at the age of 130 years.

Aupi Mam Mari had a most romantic career. According to the story of his life, told several years ago before his mind became clouded, he was the son of an Indian prince and was kidnaped when he was a child and taken to the Hawaiian Islands. There he lived for some years a slave to a Chinese planter and finally came to California as a fugitive.

From a Malay on a sailing vessel he learned that his father and brothers had spent years in trying to trace him and had finally met death in resistance to British rule in their own country.

SLAVS OBJECT TO STATUE.

Raise Fund to Legally Obstruct Honor to Kossuth.

CLEVELAND, O., July 27.—The plan of the Hungarians of Cleveland to erect a statue to their patriot, Kossuth, on the public square is being vigorously opposed by at least one other body of foreign-born people, the Slavonians.

Director of Public Works Salen recently gave permission to do so. Since then a number of meetings have been held to protest against the proposed location of the statue. At a meeting today of Slavonians plans were discussed to fight the matter in the court, and a fund of $2,000 was pledged for legal talent.

Drowned in Big Tank.

McDONALD, PA., July 27.—(Special.)—Clarence, the 10-year-old son of Robert Crowl, was drowned in a 250-barrel tank of water on the Joseph Broad farm today. With eight or nine other youths he was swimming in the tank, was seized with a cramp and sank. The tank is used by the oil operators on the Broad farm to supply the boilers.

Struck by Train.

WILD ANIMALS ROAMING IN TWO EASTERN CITIES

Escaped Panther Breaks Up a Picnic Party in Bronx Park.

A LION SCARES BATHERS

Gets Away From His Keepers in Atlantic City and Puts a Band of Music to Rout—Nobody Yet Eaten Up.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, July 27.—After gnawing his way out of a wooden box in the zoological garden in the Bronx park, a young panther just arrived from Mexico this morning walked up to a picnic party of women and children, and, astonished by their panic, jumped over their heads into a tree, and then all day led keepers and other hunters a merry chase through the Bronx jungle. He astonished the borough of the Bronx more than anything that ever got into that section of the city and broke up all the Sunday picnic parties. He was still at large this (Monday) morning, the hunt for him having been given up after dark. He injured no one.

The panther is a young male, seven months old. He is a fine specimen, being 18 inches high at the shoulders, five feet long and he weighs 45 pounds. Persons who spied him at times after his escape saw the most surprising leaps they ever witnessed.

"The beast will probably subsist on chickens or rabbits," said Superintendent Hornaday tonight. "It is not vicious, as far as I know, and I do not fear that it will attack anyone. It will probably be shot by someone before we can get it. We will give a bonus to anyone catching it alive."

LION CUB ON RAMPAGE.

"Teddy Roosevelt" Gives Startling Exhibition of Strenuous Life.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 27.—(Special.)—"Teddy Roosevelt," a playful lion cub on the Ocean pier, escaped from his cage this morning and went on a rampage. After causing a number of the feminine members of the Huntley-Moore stock company to flee, he tore a couch to pieces, invaded the dressing rooms of the pier theater and smashed half a dozen sets of water pitchers and bowls.

Encouraged by his success, the cub wrecked a few chairs and a table or two and chewed as much of the wardrobes and other belongings of the chorus girls as came in his way. "Teddy" broke out several windows in the dressing rooms, and then proceeded to the front of the pier where, from an open window he surveyed the Royal marine band at rehearsal. One of the musicians espied him and a precipitate retreat followed.

TO SEE IF IT'S CARTER.

Supt. Demmel and Guard Smith Visit New York State Prison.

Superintendent of Detectives Philip Demmel left last night for New York and will visit the state prison at Mt. Vernon to look at a prisoner suspected to be Silas Carter, who shot Officer James Sheehy on May 17.

Samuel Smith, a guard at the jail, who knows Carter, was taken along for the purpose of identifying him, as Supt. Demmel does not know the man. Requisition papers have been secured and Supt. Demmel has taken them with him.

If the prisoner is identified as Carter Gov. Odell will be asked to pardon him for the offense he was committed for, so that he may be brought here for trial.

Titus Not Discouraged.

NEW YORK, July 27.—C. S. Titus, the American oarsman who was defeated at Henley for the championship in the single scull races, arrived from London tonight on board the Atlantic transport liner Minnehaha. Mr. Titus said that he had learned considerable from the Henley races and that he intends to make another effort to capture the championship next year.

Justice Turns Murderer.

KNOXVILLE, TENN., July 27.—Berry Donahue, a justice of the peace and a well-to-do farmer living near Luttrels, shot and killed Sherman Dyer early this morning. Both attended a dance last night and it was while they were going home that the tragedy occurred. Bad feeling had existed over the outcome of a lawsuit.

VACATION MONEY.

Many Persons Abandon Trip in Order to Purchase Fine Pianos.

HAMILTON'S SALE

A Magnet Which Few Music Lovers Can Resist.

It is very gratifying to the public to know that Hamilton's are holding a midsummer clearance sale of pianos and other musical goods just at the time when so many persons are thinking of purchasing. The fact is, it is rather remarkable the number of those who have come to the conclusion that the vacation idea is being overdone, and many such persons are spending the money that was intended for vacation purposes in purchasing really good pianos. It is certainly a most sensible thing to do in view of the fact that present prices at Hamilton's save the customer from a third to a half the regular price.

Yes, but this is not all. This sale enables you to secure one of the world's best instruments and have the use of it while paying for it.

Why not come in today or tomorrow? You'll be much interested in the display, and realizing the large number of pianos in Hamilton's warerooms, which MUST be sold before the stock taking begins, on August 1, you will readily see the advantage of making a selection without delay.

No difference how little you think you can afford to pay for a piano or any other article pertaining to music, you'll find just what you wish here, and the saving will be so substantial that you will have money left for numerous other purchases.

The midsummer clearance list of notable bargains includes:

PIANOS—New and used.
ORGANS—New and used.
ANGELUS PIANO PLAYERS—New and used.
MUSIC BOXES—New and used.
TALKING MACHINES—New and used.
MANDOLINS, GUITARS, CORNETS, ETC.

Send for catalogue if you can't come.

CONCESSIONS IN CHINA.

British Treaty Proposes Some Important Changes—Commission to Probe Mission Question.

SHANGHAI, July 27.—The draft of the commercial treaty between Great Britain and China has been conditionally accepted by the Chinese government, but the clause dealing with the abolition of the Likin still awaits the approval of the British government. This clause provides that, in return for a surtax equivalent to one and one-half times the duty leviable under the protocol of 1901, China shall abolish all likin dues, stations and barriers and every form of international taxation on British goods, guaranteeing them from exactions and delays.

In article 12 Great Britain agrees to relinquish her extra-territorial rights when the reform of the Chinese judicial system and the establishment of an effective administration shall warrant so doing.

By article 13, Great Britain agrees hereafter to participate in a joint commission, if such be formed, representing China and the treaty powers, to investigate the missionary question and devise means to secure peaceful relations between Christians and non-converts.

China agrees to open four new treaty ports—Chang Sha, Wenpsien and Wai-Chou. China retains unimpaired the right to tax salt, native opium and native produce for internal consumption.

MUCH IMPROVED IS CONDITION OF MR. SCHWAB

So Favorable That His Wife's Trip to Pittsburgh is Not Delayed.

IS COMING THIS MORNING

Physician Advises His Patient to Rest For a Few Weeks, and He Is Disposed to Compromise on a Few Days.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Atlantic City, N. J., July 27.—The condition of Charles M. Schwab has improved considerably since yesterday afternoon, when he suffered a nervous attack while out driving. He was able to sit up today and converse briefly with friends who called upon him, W. E. Corey of Pittsburgh being one of the visitors at the cottage.

Although Mr. Schwab is still sick, his condition is such that his wife will not postpone her trip to Pittsburgh. She will leave Atlantic City tomorrow morning, traveling in her husband's private car. Mr. Schwab will remain here for several days, and it is probable that he will accept the advice of his physician, Dr. W. A. Conway, and rest for several weeks.

In reply to inquiries today, Dr. Conway said that when he was called in he found Mr. Schwab suffering from a slight attack of nervous exhaustion. The first time he called he remained for an hour and administered a nerve stimulant, with almost immediate benefit to the patient. On his second call he found Mr. Schwab so much better that he dispensed with medicine and advised a rest of several weeks. The patient was plainly told that he must rest or the attack would be a precursor of more serious illness. Mr. Schwab said that he would consider the advice of the physician, and promised that he would rest for several days, at least.

Mr. Schwab has been ailing for several weeks, and it is understood that he had arranged for Dr. Goulding of Tarrytown to call upon him here. This physician is said to be an old friend of the Schwab family and formerly their medical adviser.

Two physicians called at the Schwab residence today, Dr. Conway and Dr. Philip Marvel. Dr. Marvel also has been attending Mr. Schwab's father, who has been ill at the cottage for more than a week, but not confined to his bed. Both of them saw Charles M. Schwab and they told his wife that she need not postpone her proposed trip to Pittsburgh. Accordingly an order was sent to the Pennsylvania railroad to have the private car, Loretto, attached to the train leaving at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning.

On leaving the cottage today Mr. Corey refused to be interviewed. All he said was that Mr. Schwab was not ill, and that he would be out in a day or so. Mr. Schwab made light of his illness, and said he would be all right, after a short rest.

The patient remained in bed until about noon today, when he arose and sat for a while on the porch of his cottage. As there were so many telegrams and personal inquiries regarding his condition, however, that he soon retired indoors and denied himself to callers.

Dr. J. W. Goulding of Pittsburgh, an old friend and his personal physician, who had previously arranged to spend a few days with Mr. Schwab, arrived here this afternoon and is at the Schwab cottage. Under suggestion of Dr. Goulding Mr. Schwab will spend a few days here. Mr. Schwab retired at 10 o'clock. He had been out during the evening in a rolling chair for several hours. Part of the time he walked.

STRIKE OF BANDSMEN WAS MADE REALISTIC

Incident at Calhoun Park That Got Everybody Excited—Great Crowds at All Resorts.

A riotous incident at Calhoun park yesterday afternoon disturbed the equanimity of more than 5,000 people. Members of Rocereto's band struck, and for a few minutes things looked as if the concert would be called off then and there. The double attraction—the band concert and Zeno, the balloonist, drew an unusually large crowd. At the close of the fourth number on the program, Rocereto's "American Invasion," the applause was so enthusiastic that Rocereto ordered an extra number for an encore.

When the sign announcing an extra number was displayed members of the band protested against playing it. About half the band began to play, but the other members refused to touch their instruments. Director Rocereto ordered those playing to stop. Then came the excitement. Those who refused to play started to leave the music pavilion with their instruments under their arms. Everybody talked loudly.

The big audience stood up and tried to learn what the trouble was. Policeman Thompson was seen mounting the stage, and he attempted to stop the trouble. In the excitement several music stands were overturned. The musicians who objected to playing the extra number said they had been hired to play 10 numbers, and they refused to go on until promised extra pay. All were members of the union, they said.

The policeman took hold of the leader of the "kickers" and placed him under arrest. Then the other musicians attempted to mob the policeman. With this climax to the excitement all the bandsmen sat down and with the immense audience shouting proceeded to play the extra number. Rocereto then laughingly explained that the number was called "The Band Strike," and he had used the audience to make it more realistic. And the crowd didn't do a thing to the policeman, as one boy expressed it.

Zeno almost met with an accident. The crowd of boys and men holding her balloon let go before she was ready and she was suddenly jerked from the ground. She alighted in safety about a mile away.

There were big crowds at all the traction parks yesterday. It seemed as though everybody was riding on the trolley cars in the evening. Kennywood had the largest crowds. The attraction there was the Carnegie Library band of Braddock, 40 members, and they gave two good concerts. Oakwood had the Royal good concerts. Oakwood park had the Royal Austrian orchestra from Budapest and the wild Hungarian music pleased the crowd that went there.

Running the Hilltop cars to Southern park caused about 12,000 people to visit that breathing spot. The attractions there were the Pittsburgh Philharmonic orchestra and John Hall, character balladist. The two concerts were thoroughly enjoyed.

During the week Kennywood will have Dumont's minstrels and Aurie Dagwell, a character vocalist.

ONE ROUND OF PLEASURE FOR THE TEACHERS

TEACHERS GROW ENTHUSIASTIC OVER THE TRIP

Curtis Brown Pays Pleasant Visit to Party in Hotel Midland, London.

NOT EASILY TIRED OUT

Became Used to Sight-Seeing and Find It Less Irksome After First Few Days—Each Has Some Special Point of Interest.

By CURTIS BROWN.
(Special Correspondence to The Gazette.)

London, July 19.—It seemed likely that readers of The Pittsburgh Gazette might be interested in an "impression" of the teachers whom the newspaper has sent to Europe, written by one not a member of the party, so a member of The Gazette's London staff paid a visit to the Midland Grand hotel, one of the best-known London hostelries, where the blithe company of travelers is stopping while in the metropolis of the world.

It was just 7:30 in the evening, the time at which London dines, and when the visitor arrived the teachers were coming in, in little parties of three or four, from all points of the compass. Some of them had been out of town, at Windsor, others had been to the Tower and to the old Temple gardens where, as Shakespeare tells us, the White and Red roses were plucked—and still others had been giving their feminine instincts free rein in the famous shopping districts of Regent and Oxford streets.

Enthusiastic and Happy.

The dominating note of everyone's sentiments seemed to be enthusiasm over the interesting places and things that they are seeing and complete satisfaction over the arrangements that have been made for their comfort and enjoyment. John W. Anthony of Jeannette, one of the first teachers spoken with, said: "We are having the very best sort of a time and are more than delighted with the way we have fared ever since we left home. In London we have been having a particularly interesting experience. We have been provided with an unusually intelligent guide, who, I must say, seems to have English history at his fingers' ends, and that is especially satisfactory to us, because you see almost everyone of us teaches this subject, and, naturally, we are all tremendously interested in it. We have been driven from place to place of interest, such as the Abbey, St. Paul's, the British museum and the Tower in 'brakes,' I think they call them—we call them 'wagonettes'—and so lose no time in getting from one to another, and yet are able to get more than a glimps of London life on the way."

Arms Full of Souvenirs.

Miss Mary J. Stone of Beaver had come rushing in, a little late for dinner, with her arms full of "souvenirs" and her face full of enthusiasm.

"Oh!" she cried, "we have had such a good time! We have been out to Windsor Castle and through the beautiful state apartments there, and over to William Penn's house and to that lovely Stoke Pogis, where Grey's 'Elegy' was written, and in the old church there.

"And—I almost forgot—we climbed up in the round tower of Windsor castle and saw the field of Runnymeade and, all I can say is, that this trip keeps getting better and better all the time. I can't say how delighted we all are."

By this time it was nearly 7 o'clock and we went into the dining room. One entire breadth of the great room was given up to the American party, and for a son of the United States exiled in London for a little term of years, it was a goodly sight to gaze upon such a picturesque assemblage of his countrywomen, distinctive in their jaunty "shirt waists," commonsense boots and trig skirts, which seemed, as it was, like a typical and delightful bit of the New World suddenly set down in the Old.

Mrs. Redman Honored.

Over dinner one learned that the teachers, though they have been so busy in seeing London's historic places, have managed to see some of its amusements as well. Some of them had been to the opera, others to see Sir Henry Irving, others to the Hippodrome (London's all-the-year-round circus), and others still to the inspiring "Paris in London," at Earls court.

I was honored with a little talk with Mrs. M. B. Redman, the popular Pittsburgh school teacher, whose total of votes in The Gazette's contest was 725,686, and who seemed in no wise overwhelmed by the fact that one of the most important of the London newspapers had asked her to write for its columns some of her impressions of this country.

Mrs. Redman confessed that she had just come in from a shopping tour. She remarked that of the places which the party are to see in the course of their tour she is looking forward with most eagerness to Switzerland. She was agreeably excited over the prospect of seeing the London slums, which several of the party were preparing to visit under the protection of their conductor.

Diaries That Are Worth While.

Like most of the other teachers Mrs. Redman's diary is being kept up faithfully and promises on her return to the United States to be a notable record. Like all her companions, too, Mrs. Redman has nothing but praise for the way in which the party is being treated.

"All I can say is that if anybody has any complaint to make it is simply their own fault and not that of those that are managing our tour," she said.

One of the most enthusiastic of the teachers whose views were elicited was Miss Mary Ellen Steele of Pitcairn. Miss Steele had just returned from the Tower where she had been, as she said, for the second time. At the grim old place where so many English men and women of high and lowly birth parted permanently with their heads, Miss Steele and the teachers who were with her were treated to a novel sight. They happened to have chosen for their second visit to the Tower the day that little Prince Edward of York, who will some day be king of England, and his little royal brothers and sisters were taken to see the building which played so gruesome a part in the history of their ancestors, and from which two other little royal princes, who were once taken there, did not come away alive.

Not Tired by Sightseeing.

The site of the modern "Princes in the Tower," was one that the American teachers would not have missed for a good deal.

"I am glad to say," said Miss Steele, "that we have got used to sightseeing and are not tired at all now, as we were for the first day or two. I remember that on the day when we went to the British museum we were so tired that I am afraid we were much more interested in the settees placed about the various rooms than we were in the antiques."

Miss Steele admitted that she is looking forward with most interest to seeing Paris.

The party was leaving London for the continent on the following night. As the representative of The Gazette left the hotel the adventurous teachers who were about to invade the depths of Whitechapel and Spitalfields were just setting undauntedly forth.

CATHOLIC FEDERATION PROGRAM IS PREPARED

Bishop Muldoon Will Open Convention at Chicago With Pontifical High Mass at Cathedral.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, July 27.—National Secretary Anthony Matre of the American Federation of Catholic societies reports the program complete for the second national convention at Chicago August 5, 6 and 7.

The convention will be opened with pontifical high mass at Holy Name cathedral, with the Rt. Rev. P. J. Muldoon as celebrant and Bishops Messmer, McFaul and other prominent church dignitaries in the sanctuary.

The business sessions will be formally opened on Tuesday, August 5, when addresses of welcome will be delivered by the governor of Illinois and the mayor of Chicago, and responses will be made by prominent officials of the Federation. In the evening of the same date a mass meeting will be held at the convention hall, to which the general public will be invited.

The national executive board will meet in executive session with the supreme officers of he various national organizations Monday evening, August 4. The heads of the German, French, Polish and Bohemian federations will also be in attendance, and a plan adopted which will unite all these bodies. The Federation has received letters of approbation from several archbishops and 20 bishops and the blessing of Pope Leo XIII.

CLOSED WITH A RALLY.

Colored Baptists Were Edified by the Remarks of Several Enthusiastic Preachers.

The convention of the Allegheny General Baptist association (colored) which was in session at the Trinity Baptist church in Ligonier street, Lawrenceville, the greater part of last week, closed yesterday with what was termed a "grand rally" at the church named. The Rev. Samuel Eubanks directed the service that preceded the talks delivered by several ministers, that portion of the services being under the charge of the Rev. O. S. Simms, who presided over the sessions of the association's convention.

The rally services were enthusiastic. All the preachers had a few words to say, and fervent ejaculations of assent to their remarks came from the congregation which filled the church.

Eubanks, who is a missionary, was somewhat displeased because the association had been in session for five days and had not spent a minute in discussing mission work. He made up for this oversight, however, himself and frequently alluded to mission work and the necessity of supporting it.

VACATION DAYS MOST COMPLETE FOR TEACHERS

Some of Pittsburgh Tourists in Europe Have Even Forgotten How to Spell.

HAPPY DAY IN LONDON

Visit to Westminster Abbey and View of Jerusalem Room With Its Many Historical Memories—Busy Scenes on Thames.

By L. W. STRAYER,
Staff Correspondent.
(Special Correspondence to The Gazette.)

London, July 16.—This has been another delightful day and the teachers' excursion of The Pittsburgh Gazette and Chronicle Telegraph has been fortunate in every respect. The day was devoted to driving about the city and visiting many of the historical points of interest. At 9:30 we started out from the Midland Grand hotel and drove down along the embankment, past Somerset house, getting a good view of the traffic on the Thames. Then to the houses of parliament and Westminster abbey. All about this part of the city the streets are lined with viewing stands from which the notable personages were to see the coronation parade. These stands remain untouched, since to remove them would indicate that the government officials have no hope of the coronation taking place for an indefinite period.

Tourists cannot enter the houses of parliament without a pass signed by a member. Some of our party have secured such passes through letters of introduction and will have the privilege of seeing parliament in session.

Our visit to Westminster abbey was both fortunate and unfortunate. The abbey, proper, is closed by reason of the interior decorations there in preparation for the coronation, consequently the poet's corner and the other niches of this old building were not open to our party.

Where First Parliament Met.

But we walked through the crumbling cloisters and read the inscriptions on the ancient tombstones, some of which date back to the eleventh century. In the old chapel are stored many relics of great interest, and it was in this room that the first parliament met in London after the signing of the magna charta.

After viewing these places our guides secured permission for us to visit the Jerusalem chamber. This room is not open to the public, but is used for ecclesiastical meetings. During the coronation the crown and other paraphernalia will be kept in this room until needed in the auditorium of the abbey. The Jerusalem chamber has many historical associations, but it is especially interesting to the Presbyterians of our party, as it was here that the Westminster confession of faith was written. Here, also, was the Bible first translated into English and here, too, was the revised version made. It was in this room that Henry IV. died, and the exact spot in front of the fireplace where his soul passed from earth was pointed out. Our guide informed us that in the Jerusalem chamber was burned the first coal fire ever burned in England. There are many other things in history closely associated with this old apartment, and it proved one of the most interesting places visited.

At the Old Curiosity Shop.

On our way back to the hotel for luncheon we stopped at the old curiosity shop, immortalized by Dickens, and the teachers bought nearly the entire stock of souvenir post cards and pictures of Dickens' characters.

In the afternoon we visited the British museum and spent considerable time viewing the wonderful collection of antiquities. It was of necessity a superficial view, as weeks could be spent in this great museum, and new things seen every day.

An amusing incident occurred during the visit to Westminster abbey. We were walking through the cloisters and the guide was explaining when and by whom each nave was built. Many of the teachers carried note books and jotted down points of special interest. As the guide mentioned the nave constructed by Henry VIII, six school-ma'ams exclaimed in one voice:

"Oh, how do you spell nave?"

There was a general laugh at this, and one teacher, feeling the importance of the situation, said:

"Why, k-n-a-av-e, of course."

Later it was explained that as the teachers were on a vacation, their forgetfulness was pardonable.

BRUMM SNOWED UNDER.

Ex-Congressman Loses the Fight of His Life—Voters Puzzled by New Primary Rules.

POTTSVILLE, PA., July 27.—(Special.)—Ex-Congressman C. N. Brumm of Minersville made the fight of his life for the congressional nomination. Notwithstanding that he conducted a speaking campaign, he was defeated by a large majority at yesterday's primaries.

The returns are not yet all in, and the county ticket is still in doubt. Harry Palmer leads his opponent, Thomas Lee, in the First legislative district by two votes. Palmer is an active United Mine Worker and the miners asked for his nomination. Alfred Garner of Ashland is renominated without opposition in the Second district. The fight in the Third district is close.

The Republican party in Schuylkill county has had its first experience under the new rules. In many of the small districts more votes were cast at the primaries than heretofore there have been Republican votes recorded. The novelty to the voter of designating a first and second choice proved very embarrassing, and a very large number of the so-called intelligent voters were compelled to ask for instructions as to how to vote.

Chairman W. S. Leib of Ashland, who has had charge of the organization, is a candidate for United States sub-treasurer for Philadelphia, the position now held by Maj. John E. Finney. Mr. Leib is depending upon the retirement of George R. Patterson of Ashland, together with holding the organization, to displace Mr. Finney and have himself substituted.

A Book That Continues to Hold the Public Interest.

It isn't "To Have and to Hold," although this bit of fiction has many readers, nor is it the "Mississippi Bubble." It's the bank book, showing your 4 per cent interest-bearing savings account that continues the most widely and deservedly popular book of today.

The Standard Security Trust Company, 209-213 Fourth avenue, pays 4 per cent interest; compounded semi-annually.

Banking by mail's a great thing for out-of-town depositors.

FISTIC DUEL FATAL.

Two Boys Quarrel Over Girl and Relatives and Friends Watch Them Fight It Out.

PORTLAND, ORE., July 27.—Frank Carlson and George Baldwin, each aged 19, quarreled over two girls, to whom both were paying attention.

Carlson challenged Baldwin to fight. The fight took place with bare knuckles, in the presence of relatives and friends of both boys, in an unfrequented part of the city.

The fight lasted about 20 minutes. At the end of that time Carlson received a blow in the stomach, and fell to the ground. When picked up he was dead. Baldwin is in jail.

FLYING SQUADRON AT WORK.

Raid on Forbes Street Gambling House Bags 13 Men.

The "Flying Squadron" raided a gambling house last night at No. 1811 Forbes street and captured 18 players. The proprietor, Jacob Strausberger, was also arrested. The men gave forfeits for their appearance at a hearing in the morning before Police Magistrate Bernard McKenna.

The raid was conducted by Inspector Fred Will, Capt. George B. McClelland, Lieut. Milton Bailey and Officer Edward Kennedy. Inspector Will and Capt. McClelland climbed in the front window, unknown to the players, and surprised them. The players made an effort to escape through the windows, but no one succeeded in doing so. The inmates included a number of business men in that ward. Among them was Charles Davis, the alleged Diamond Syndicate man. Two tables were in operation. A quantity of poker chips and liquor was also found.

Wrecked by Washout.

TYLER, TEX., July 27.—A southbound International & Great Northern passenger train was wrecked today by a washout, three miles south of White House. The engine was telescoped by the tender. The fireman was killed and the engineer seriously injured.

A THREATENING VOLCANO.

Subterranean Roarings Heard in a Town 19 Miles Away.

SAN JOSE, COSTA RICA, July 27.—Subterranean roarings resembling thunder are frequently heard in this city and in Alajuela, a town 11½ miles away.

They are believed to be caused by the Poas volcano, 19 miles northwest of here. Quantities of ashes have fallen at San Pedro, a village near the volcano.

Bryan Goes on Cruise.

BRIDGEPORT, CONN., July 27.—William J. Bryan left Bridgeport late this afternoon on board a yacht owned by Lewis Nixon of New York, whose guest he will be for the next two days. The yacht will put into New Haven harbor tonight and will cruise to the eastward through Long Island sound tomorrow. It is expected that on Tuesday Mr. Bryan will land at Block island, where he will rest for several days.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing the city recorder to enter into an agreement with S. C. Farrar to pay the said S. C. Farrar the sum of seven hundred thirty-two and fifty hundredths dollars ($732.50) in full of damages to the property of the said S. C. Farrar, located on the north side of Clayton avenue, resulting from the widening and change of grade of said Clayton avenue.

Section 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the select and common councils of the city of Allegheny, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same,

Whereas, By the authority of the laws of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the city of Allegheny opened, widened and changed the grade of Clayton avenue, and upon the petition of the city of Allegheny, viewers were appointed at No. 148 August term, 1900, to assess the benefits and damages for the said improvements, and

Whereas, The said viewers, as appears by their report filed at the above number and term, assessed the said S. C. Farrar on his property located on the north side of Clayton avenue with benefits in the sum of nine hundred seventy-eight ($978.00) dollars, and awarded him damages in the sum of one thousand seven hundred ten and fifty hundredths ($1,710.50) dollars, and

Whereas, The time for filing exceptions and taking appeals from the report of the said viewers has passed and the said report by reason of exceptions filed thereto and appeals taken therefrom, has not yet been confirmed absolutely by the court, and

Whereas, Neither the said S. C. Farrar nor the city of Allegheny has filed exceptions to nor taken appeals from the action of the board of viewers so far as relates to the assessment of benefits and damages against the property of the said S. C. Farrar, and

Whereas, The net damages so assessed as aforesaid, are equitable, just, reasonable and adequate and satisfactory to both the said S. C. Farrar and the city of Allegheny, and the said S. C. Farrar is unable to dispose of his property until the matter is finally determined or a contract entered into between him and the said city, agreeing that the said damages shall be paid to the said S. C. Farrar as soon as this report of the board of viewers, or any other subsequent report that may be filed, shall be confirmed absolutely.

Section 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the select and common councils of the city of Allegheny, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the city recorder be and he is hereby directed to enter into an agreement with S. C. Farrar that the net damages of seven hundred thirty-two and fifty hundredths ($732.50) dollars awarded S. C. Farrar at No. 148 August term, 1900, shall be considered as equitable, legal, just, satisfactory and conclusive as to both the said S. C. Farrar and the city of Allegheny and that when the question of benefits and damages by reason of the improvement of Clayton avenue, now pending at the above number and term, shall be finally approved by the court, the said city of Allegheny will pay unto the said S. C. Farrar the said sum of seven hundred thirty-two and fifty hundredths ($732.50) dollars which shall be in full settlement of the claim of S. C. Farrar for damages from above improvement.

Municipal Government.

The recent decision of the Ohio supreme court invalidating municipal charters on the ground that they violate its constitutional prohibition of special legislation has attracted widespread attention, and periodicals devoted to municipal reform are inclined to regard the event with favor as a victory for home rule, as it will compel the enactment of a general incorporation act, within whose provisions city government can develop in accordance with local experience of local needs.

The case is particularly interesting to citizens of this commonwealth, as the constitutional provision under which the supreme court of Ohio rendered its decision is substantially the same as that contained in the constitution of Pennsylvania. In Ohio, as in Pennsylvania, the legislature evaded its requirements by municipal classification, general in towns but special in application. In Pennsylvania the supreme court has admitted the principle of classification to a limited extent, but has plainly intimated that it will not permit further extension of it. The disposition of the court as manifested in the most recent decisions indicates that if the question came up unfettered by the court's own precedents, the court would be likely to decide against any classification whatever. This is what the Ohio supreme court has done, and in order to comply with its decision the legislature will have to provide an organic law covering all municipal government.

It is entirely feasible to pass a municipal charter establishing a general frame of government, leaving it to each city to provide itself with such departmental organization as it requires by means of its own ordinances. This is the precise method employed in England, the various cities deriving their powers from a general municipal incorporation act, but embodying and exercising those powers in accordance with their respective needs. Municipal government is, however, a more practical affair in England than in this country, and is less distorted by theory. The fundamental principle is the union of executive and legislative powers. In this country the traditional principle is that those powers should be separate, but in practice, unless party organization effects administrative unity between the executive and legislative departments, the government is weak, vacillating and ineffective, alternating between paralysis and corruption. Better municipal government is not likely until charter organization is based upon actual conditions and not upon obsolete theory.

The Trusts and the Tariff.

Congressman Hepburn, of Iowa, is quite convinced that revision of the tariff is not the remedy to apply to injurious trusts. He realizes that something should be done, but acknowledges that it is hard to know exactly what to do. Mr. Hepburn has been to visit President Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill, and on his way home he let drop a few ideas. His Iowa constituents will support the administration in the move to regulate great industrial combinations, but he thinks the whole matter is still in the thoughtful stage. We need, he says, a law that will hit injurious trusts and not harm legitimate combinations of capital.

The situation could scarcely be put in more succinct form. Not all trusts are injurious, although it is the favorite free-trade attitude to pretend that they are. Some combinations of capital are beneficial to the producer and the consumer, and also to the workmen employed by them. Mr. Hepburn is inclined to think that federal taxation of the capital stock of industrial combinations would be an effective agent in controlling trusts, because it would prevent inflating their capital beyond the money actually represented thereby. This process of "squeezing out the water" might be of value if the tax were not so high as to be a burden on legitimate enterprises which are already bearing their proportion of municipal and state taxation.

The opinion of Mr. Hepburn that no revision should be made in the tariff as a means of regulating the trusts is shared by Representative Dick, of Ohio. He says the people of his state do not want business disturbed by talk of tariff changes.

Causes and Preventives.

There is no doubt the mine disaster at Johnstown was due to the use of naked lamps in the gaseous section. Engineer Marshal Moore and the state mine inspectors have settled that point. Those lamps were used in violation of instructions given the miners. The coroner's jury thus has the simple duty of deciding whether any reasonable precaution was neglected that might have prevented the disobedience of the miners.

Inspector Ross thinks the law should forbid the issue or use of any but safety lamps, and that there is no other way to prevent explosions, though he admits there is danger in that course. The danger lurking in the use of safety lamps was defined by Marshal Moore, engineer of mines, to be that with such lights the miner cannot see clearly the roof or walls of his room and is more likely to be caught by a "fall." A fall rarely catches more than three or four men—most frequently only one—but the statistics of the mining industry in Pennsylvania will prove that in twenty years twice as many miners have been killed by falls as by explosions. In that aspect the remedy may prove worse than the disease. Explosions attract public attention because they kill many at one time, while falls of slate from the roof pass unnoticed.

The introduction of electricity into mines may yet prove the best solution. Compressed air is safer for the operation of mining machines and tram cars, because there is a danger in the "sparking" of electric machinery. But incandescent lights are safe in gas and their illuminating power is greater than that of the miner's naked lamp. Electric lights are expensive, of course, but true economy is not always found in low first cost. Mine explosions are costly always and sometimes ruinous.

Yet there is another danger independent of the matter of light. Miners like to smoke. Many carry matches and strike them despite orders and cautionary advice. They will not submit to search in this country as tamely as they do in England and Wales, where most rigorous measures are found necessary to prevent the smuggling of fiery materials into the workings. Here, again, the demand for labor is such that miners cannot be had where severest restrictions are attempted. Both the legal and practical problems involved, in securing safety in the mine, are difficult. Yet there can be but one opinion that safety shall be the first consideration and that every effort should be directed to that end.

The Russian Note.

The latest Russian suggestion for an international convention was described in all press reports as a proposition to regulate trusts. Considered as such, it was believed generally that Russian statesmen had some ulterior and sinister motive, but the text of the note, which was received last week in Washington, changes the aspect of the whole matter. The note is addressed to the governments that participated in the sugar bounties conference at Brussels, and as the United States was not a participant the receipt of a copy of the note by the state department at Washington is due to the courteous desire of the Russian government to give information to this government.

Russia's apparent motive is not aggression, but defense. It will be recalled that the United States treasury department ruled that Russia's manner of encouraging domestic sugar production amounted to a bounty on sugar exports, and in fact and in law was such. As a result, in obedience to his interpretation of the requirements of the Dingley law, Secretary Gage imposed the countervailing duty provided therein. Russia retaliated by levying her maximum tariff on American imports that had previously borne only the minimum tariff. The dispute is yet unsettled. The Brussels conference, in which the United States did not participate, pronounced against sugar bounties. The present effort of Russia is in effect, if not in form, a protest against Europe construing Russian encouragement of Russian sugar to be an export bounty, as the United States construed it. If other governments do not accept the Russian view Russia is ready to go into a new conference, but one that "should have for its object not only sugar, but also the other leading staples of the international trade of the present day," and that should undertake "an examination, not only of the results of direct measures by the government, such as the creation of bounties or the control of production, but also the essence of various syndicates tolerated and protected by the government."

It is clear, therefore, that the czar's government, instead of endeavoring to lead the way to an international crusade against trusts by calling a new conference, is merely kicking up a dust in an effort to escape the measures agreed on by the Brussels conference against bounty-supported sugar. The so-called proposition for a convention isn't that at all, but a mere alternative suggestion, in which the United States is interested because of its own troubles with Russia concerning sugar. For that reason our government and exporters will note with interest the manner in which it may be treated by Europe.

A Factor in Water Problem.

Capt. Brown and Col. Roberts advance a factor in the water supply problem that has been given far less attention than its importance justifies. The consideration in the past has been chiefly of pure water for domestic uses and an ample supply for protection from fire. The gentlemen quoted in our local news columns devote themselves in addition to water for industrial uses. Certainly that phase of the question is entitled to third place.

It is pointed out by both Capt. Brown and Col. Roberts that while industry is constantly demanding more water, it is vitiating the quality of the supply in the industrial district. Manufacturing and transportation interests in the Monongahela valley have suffered enormously from the presence of large quantities of sulphuric acid and certain salts in the river. Steam boilers are eaten out with marvelous rapidity by these substances.

So, while the water question is open, it is well to extend proposed remedies to include the industrial field. First of all is the preservation of human life and health; second, protection against fire; third, protection against machinery accidents. Introduction of a meter system will effect economy, no doubt, and any kind of water will do for the fire mains. Pure water is needed for domestic purposes and the feeding of boilers. Any solution that does not provide for all of these things can only be a temporary makeshift.

Ready-Made Campaign Issues.

If the Democratic party of Massachusetts is short of candidates for governor and shy on issues, it can find both by nominating Charles S. Hamlin. Mr. Hamlin can provide them with a candidate and a ready-made platform, for he has ideas on which he desires to make the run, and which he thinks would take among his fellow-citizens of the Old Bay State. In coyly placing himself in a position easily within reach of the nomination for governor when it begins to seek for the man, Mr. Hamlin says that if nominated he will advocate:

The referendum as a popular check upon representative government.

Home rule and increased legislative powers for cities and towns.

Prohibiting by law, under heavy penalties, interference with the legislature or legislators by corporations by means of campaign contributions or appointments to office.

Rigid municipal control of public utilities with a view to ultimate municipal ownership whenever necessary to make such control effective in public interest.

Grants by the legislature of municipalities of rights in or along the public ways or streets to be subject to revocation at the will of the grantor. When not revocable, to be for short terms, for adequate consideration and subject to the referendum.

Concentration of executive power in the office of governor, with seats for heads of departments appointed by the governor in the legislature.

There is no intimation what the Democratic managers of Massachusetts intend to do with Mr. Hamlin's offer, nor what Mr. Hamlin intends to do if they respectfully decline it. Perhaps in that case he will run independently and disperse his oratory all over the state on his own responsibility.

Idle Complaint.

As might have been expected, the anti-imperialists give President Roosevelt a dozen words of praise and a volume of denunciation. But no one aside from themselves is going to pay any attention to their diatribe. Whatever tendency toward cruelty there may have been in the Philippines has been checked by the courts-martial and the reprimand of Gen. Smith. The American army has rendered distinguished service in those islands and its record is marred by very few lapses. Its morale is good, despite the anti-imperialist imputations to the contrary, and now that civil government has been established on a peaceful basis, it, too, will make a good record.

A fine souvenir edition of the Chicago Tribune signalizes the occupation of a new home. The paper is now quartered in a splendid sky-scraper and is more prosperous than ever.

Old-Time Naval Discipline

From the New York Tribune.

Admiral Jouett, the jolliest old sea dog of all the retired officers of the navy, tells an amusing story of his early days as a cadet.

"I was a sociable youngster," he says, "and when I went to my first assignment, the Independence, and saw the stars and stripes floating over it, I remembered my mother had taught me that my first duty was to the flag, so I attempted some conversation on this line with the executive officer, who had received me when I came on board, and who was one of the strictest disciplinarians in the navy of that day.

"'Silence, sir!' he roared at my first question, his face red with anger. 'Silence, sir! Who gave you permission to speak? Let me hear only six words from you, sir, while you are on this ship—port, starboard, yes, sir, and no, sir.'

"And this was my first discipline in the navy."

CARNEGIE HILL FASHION'S CENTER

Name of the Great Pittsburgher Bestowed Upon a Reorganized Hotel.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, July 27.

Andrew Carnegie has given his name to several institutions in New York, and before long there will be a dozen or two of public libraries bearing his patronymic. Now there is to be a Carnegie Hill hotel. It will be at the northeast corner of Madison avenue and Ninety-second street, very near to Mr. Carnegie's new mansion. The building is there already, but it is to be so much improved and embellished that it will be practically new. It has been known as the Hotel Chastaigneray. "Carnegie Hill" is the way that part of the city will be known hereafter, for the mansion of the great Pittsburgher will be the most prominent edifice in the neighborhood, and, naturally, gives the name of its owner to the whole district. Moreover, Andrew Carnegie is responsible for the settling there of a number of other wealthy men. He it was who first called the attention of New Yorkers to the desirability of this part of the city as a residence district, proving the force of his convictions by building his own house there, with the purpose of spending the rest of his life in it whenever he is in New York. It is remarkable that the rising ground at that part of Fifth avenue did not become known as "Carnegie hill" long ago. As a rule, such picturesque titles for certain quarters of this city are bestowed immediately; the fact that they are pleasant to pronounce and entirely descriptive bringing them into favor with the populace at once. The opening of this hotel under new auspices and a new title surely will give an added impetus to the already brisk movement of real estate on and about "Carnegie hill," and Mr. Carnegie will find himself in the heart of fashionable New York by the time he is fairly settled down in his splendid home up in the "Nineties."

A Knockout Blow for Pugilism.

Whether the pugilistic contest in San Francisco on Friday night was or was not a "fake," there is a general feeling in this city that the talk about its being dishonest will administer a blow to the sport of the ring from which it will not recover in the present generation. This, too, in spite of the fact that most New York sporting men had bet on the winner.

The Run on the Seaside Resorts.

It was not a very pleasant day for excursions today, but the weather did not keep the usual thousands from Coney Island, Rockaway, Brighton beach and the other resorts by the sea, to which New York is in the habit of betaking itself en masse on Sunday. The boats all ran crowded to the guards and the trolley and "L" trains were busy, as they always are on the first day of the week. Many late stayers had to remain at Coney Island all night, to sleep on the sands under the various shelters; but this is so common a happening that it is not regarded as calling for more than passing comment.

Municipal Building for Uptown.

Uptown in New York nearly everything goes, it seems, except the Battery and the Statue of Liberty. The offer of the two Miss Stokes to sell to the city under its value the old Stokes home, in Madison avenue, near Twenty-sixth street, with the provision that the city use the site for some public purpose, may result in a municipal building making its way uptown. The Stokes property, which incloses the Manhattan club at the corner of Twenty-sixth street, would, says Mayor Low, make an ideal site for a municipal edifice if the Manhattan club could be included. The board of estimate will consider the question in due course. In the meantime the mayor has thanked the two ladies for their generous offer. The terms of the offer are that the city shall pay $100,000 less than the property's assessed value. There is something original in this idea that cannot but strike favorably the officials of the metropolis. It has a dash of shrewd business that is absolutely fascinating.

The City Cleaner Than Ever Before.

According to the street cleaning department, New York city is cleaner now than ever it has been. In proof of this desirable state of affairs, the report of the department shows that in June of last year it collected 13,157 tons of garbage in the city, while last month it found 17,292 tons. When one comes to think of it, this is a large amount of refuse to be collected and carried away, even in a great city like this, and it must mean that the city is not so littered up with rubbish as it would be if the street cleaning department were not so active. It takes a great deal of instruction to make people understand that they must separate their ashes and garbage, and obey the health department's ordinances generally; but the work of education in this regard has been carried on effectively under the present municipal administration, and New York is not half a bad place to live in.

The New Street Signs.

Three kinds of street signs are to be put up in New York city as soon as the contracts can be awarded. The larger number will be dark blue enameled metal street signs, with clear-cut, conspicuous white letters. There are to be 6,000 of these. The other two kinds are to be affixed to lamp posts, fire alarm posts and electric light poles, and one of them is to have a deflector, reflector and radiator attachment. Bids will be opened on the 6th of August, and as soon as it is decided who are to have the contracts, the work of putting up the signs will begin. There are many more street signs about New York than there used to be, but even now it is hard for a stranger to find his way about, especially at night. Money for the signs was appropriated by the board of estimate two months ago, but some tangle of red tape held up the matter until now.

Different Conceptions of Victor Hugo.

There is a free exhibition in New York city that only a small proportion of the population knows anything about. It is the display of pictures, letters and other material in connection with Victor Hugo, the centennial of whose birth has called it forth. Talking about the various portraits of the poet made by different men at about the same period, the Evening Post notes as extremely curious the strange dissimilarity between the portraits, and observes that they would be hardly taken as pictures of the same man. In the etching by Paul Chenany, from a photograph of 1857, there is no suggestion of the massive, rather benign, head of later years made familiar by countless photographs and caricatures. Far pleasanter are Rajon's etchings after Bonnat's painting. A medallion by David d'Angers, made in 1826, bears hardly a resemblance to the Chenay etchings.

How the Tunnel Is to Be Dug.

Here is an expert description of how the rapid transit tunnel under the East and North rivers will be made: They are to be bored by the employment of two pneumatic shields, as they are termed in engineering parlance. These are great, steel cylinders with a forward sharp cutting rim, a double air chamber, with doors just back of the rim, in which the diggers will be employed, and with air pipes and valves to maintain a supply of ozone and an air pressure that will prevent the flooding of the chamber as the shield forces its way through the bed of the river. In the rear chamber there are flanges on the rim, or shell of the shield, and as the shield proceeds the shell of the tunnel is built up inside. The shield is forced onward by hydraulic jacks operating against the shell of the tunnel and the flanges of the shield. The material excavated through the head of the shield is to be run back on dirt cars to a shaft and thence loaded on boats and taken up the river and dumped upon the Harlem flats.

Summer Theatricals Thinning Out.

There are only three musical comedies in New York now. "The Chaperones" ended its run at Cherry Blossom grove, which is the roof garden of the New York, last night, and the actors have all gone to the seashore or mountains, or wherever they elect to spend their short vacation. The three musical shows that still live on Broadway are "The Wild Rose," at the Knickerbocker; "A Chinese Honeymoon," at the Casino, and "The Defender," at the Herald Square.

A Fresh Supply of Anthracite.

It seems that Welsh anthracite coal will be used on the Manhattan "L" after all. H. L. Herbert, coal agent for the road, said yesterday that a cargo of the coal was on its way here from Cardiff for use on the dummy engines. There has not been any soft coal used on the "L" for some weeks, but anthracite is running short, and the value of the Welsh coal, if it should prove to be good, may be well understood. The latest prediction about coal in New York is that anthracite will go up to $10 a ton before tomorrow night.

Music in Paradise Garden.

Oscar Hammerstein announces that the cost of the numerous "turns" to be presented in Paradise garden this week will aggregate $7,000. At the head of his bill will be Signor Creatori and his band of 50 Italian musicians.

Suggests Peaches and Cream.

An enthusiastic young woman who had been shopping yesterday morning confided to me at dinner time in the evening: "I saw a gown to be worn by a girl who is the happy possessor of a halo of burnished copper-colored hair and a creamy skin, that was a beauty. It was a white voile adorned with flounces striped with white silk and worn with an accordion-pleated white chiffon blouse. Over this she will wear a basqued bolero of broadly-striped black and white taffetas, and the finishing touch will be supplied by a white crin hat with black and white wings and a white parasol with a jade cabochon handle." Isn't that just peaches and cream?

Hot Weather Finery.

Here is another satorial hint for Pittsburgh's fair femininity: It is to be assumed that we will have hot weather some time this year, and when it comes it will be muslin, muslin everywhere, with spotted and painted chiffon, lisse, embroidered cambric and the all-over lace robe—anything that is absolutely light and airy, and lulls as well as feels cool. Painted muslin or chiffon veiled with gauze or net is perhaps the daintiest thing of the moment, and for the woman who is no longer actually enjoying the golden days of youth there is nothing so handsome as a black chantilly over a white or colored taffeta, the pattern of the lace being "picked out" in velvet.

THE DEATH ROLL.

Ellis N. Johnson.

ALLIANCE, O., July 27.—(Special.)—Ellis N. Johnson, aged 77, a prominent resident of this city, died this afternoon. His was a son of Ellis Johnson, a government surveyor, who came here from Washington county, Pennsylvania, in 1815, and died here in 1880 at the age of 100 years. Ellis N. Johnson graduated from Marlborough college, also attended and taught in Mt. Union college. In 1858 he founded and for eight years was principal of the Southwestern Normal school at Washington, Pa. He was a graduate of the Cleveland Law school. He served four years in the Ohio legislature, was appointed by Secretary Sherman to a position in the United States treasury and then accepted a position in the war department. Later he was a special examiner in the United States pension office. The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Mary Wilmot.

Mrs. Mary Wilmot died at the Home for Aged Protestants, Wilkinsburg, yesterday of a complication of diseases, after a lingering illness. Her husband, Charles Wilmot, died in the same institution two years ago. Deceased had been an inmate of the home for five years, having formerly resided in Lawrenceville. The Wilmots came to Pittsburgh from England 15 years ago, and were prominently connected. Mrs. Wilmot is survived by five grown children, four sons and one daughter. Two sons live in England; Sidney Wilmot is connected with the Tradesmans bank, Pittsburgh; Harry Wilmot is of Sharon, Pa., and Mrs. Sarah Jenkins is of Knoxville. The interment will take place at Homewood cemetery tomorrow afternoon.

Daniel A. Bolt.

Daniel A. Bolt died at his home in McKeesport yesterday, aged 70 years. He had been ill for some time and death was from general debility. Mr. Bolt was one of the prominent business men of McKeesport. He was born in Schenectady, N. Y., came to McKeesport about 40 years ago and started in business. At the time of his death he was conducting a wholesale confectionery, with his only child, William, under the name of Dan. A. Bolt & Son. Mr. Bolt was married early in life. His wife died several years ago. He was a prominent member of the Presbyterian church.

Funeral of John W. Mackay.

LONDON, July 27.—(Copyright Cable.)—Memorial services for John W. Mackay will be held in St. Mary's Catholic church, Cadogan place, Tuesday. The body will not be taken to America until some time in September, Mrs. Mackay's health not permitting an earlier departure.

Philip H. Kumler.

CINCINNATI, July 27.—Philip H. Kumler, aged 65, a prominent attorney, died suddenly at his home here today from cholera morbus. He had been city solicitor, United States district attorney, and common pleas judge for many years, and held other public positions.

Obituary Notes.

Mrs. John McAlister died yesterday at her home, No. 343 Winfield street, East End. She will be buried tomorrow at Irwin.

The remains of Mrs. James R. Doran of Wilkinsburg, who died at the East End hospital Saturday, will be sent to Uniontown this morning for interment.

Andrew Porter Glenn is dead at the home of his son, D. E. Glenn, West Railroad avenue, Oakmont. He was 75 years old. Mr. Glenn will be buried at Butler this morning.

Charles S. Benney, the son of the late James F. Benney, died yesterday morning. He was 29 years old. The funeral will be held tomorrow from the home of his sister, Mrs. George Pandeberry, Bon Air, Knoxville.

Mrs. Ella L. Rupert, the wife of John H. Rupert, died on Saturday, in her 27th year. She will be buried from the home of her sister, Mrs. George Crawford, 31 Dunlap street, Allegheny, this afternoon.

A Kentucky Misunderstanding.

From the New York Times.

One day when Senator-elect McCreary of Kentucky was out looking after his political fences he stopped before a house where there was a well in the yard and asked for a drink.

"Sorry, mister," responded the man of the house, "but there ain't a drop on this here place, and I am getting purty dry myself."

"Isn't there any water in the well?" exclaimed McCreary.

"Of course there is," blurted out the man; "I didn't know you wanted water. I thought you wanted a drink."

A Weird Suspicion.

From the Baltimore American.

"The man who sticks close to his desk and never goes to sea is to be out of favor in our new navee," is the cry. Is it possible that the usefulness of the desk-fighters is to be questioned? And what has started the weird and sudden suspicion that a deck may be a more fitting place for a navy officer than a desk?

LOURDES SHRINE AND PRETENDER

Pilgrimages Almost as Fashionable in Europe as in Middle Ages.

Deeply distressed on account of her childlessness the duchess of Orleans, who is by birth an Austrian archduchess, has just paid a visit to Lourdes in the hope that the pilgrimage may bring about the fulfilment of her prayers, and the realization of the so ardently yearned-for joys of motherhood.

While there are few who will not sympathize with the duchess, who is a singularly charming woman, and universally liked, it may be questioned whether the royalist party in France are anxious for the birth of a son and heir to the duke of Orleans. The latter is so unpopular, and an object of such mingled aversion, exasperation and contempt on the part of most French monarchists that they would always be filled with dread lest any son he might have would inherit his father's shortcomings, and thus still further handicap the Royalist cause.

Few people in France either expect or hope to see of duke of Orleans established on the throne. But Royalist hopes are nearly all centered upon the childless pretender's younger brother, the exceedingly bright and promising Prince Ferdinand, duke of Montpensier, now 18 years of age, a sub-lieutenant in the Spanish navy, in which he has received his training, and the principal heir of his mother's father, the late duke of Montpensier. Indeed, Prince Ferdinand is enormously rich, or rather will be when he comes of age on his twenty-first birthday, and seems to possess all those qualities of tact, courage and powers of fascination which are so lamentably absent in his elder brother.

The duchess of Orleans was accompanied on her pilgrimage to Lourdes by a very large suite, and the bishop of Montpellier, who is a scion of a Royalist family, came specially from his diocese to Lourdes in order to preside over the religious ceremonies. At the close of the latter the duchess held a species of receptions, at which all the men and women kissed her hand and paid her the homage due to a queen of France.

Pilgrimages Are Popular.

Pilgrimages are almost as much in vogue among European royalty nowadays as in the middle ages. Sometimes the bournes are Jerusalem and Bethlehem, while in other instances it is Lourdes, or some hallowed spot less remote. One of the most notable pilgrimages in recent years has been that of the German emperor and empress to the holy land, which King Edward visited when quite a young man, in the company of Dean Stanley. The late empress of Austria, Empress Eugenie, the late Emperor Frederick of Germany, Prince Henry of Prussia, the late crown prince of Austria and his wife, Prince Frederick of Schleswig-Holstein and his American wife, then princess of Noer and now Countess Waldersee, and the late Archduke Charles Lewis and his consort are among the long list of pilgrims to Jerusalem, to whom I must add the name of the present king of Italy.

There are few more pathetic figures in old world royalty than these childless ladies. For it is not merely that they are denied the joys of motherhood, but they realize full well that they are a source of bitter disappointment and often of ill-will, not only to their husband and his family, but likewise to his people on account of their failure to provide an heir and thus contribute towards the perpetuation of the dynasty.

Notable Instances.

Among the most notable instances thereof in these modern times have been the now widowed queen of Saxony, the still beautiful and fascinating queen of Wurtemberg, whose childlessness will have the effect of investing a Roman Catholic prince, a remote kinsman of her husband, with the succession to the throne of this essentially Protestant kingdom. Then there is Queen Draga of Servia, whose failure to provide an heir to her husband's crown is certain to lead to all sorts of complications, culminating in war in the southeast of Europe. Childless, too, is the wife of the crownprince of Baden, thanks to which the grandducal throne will eventually go to a nephew of the present ruler, and equally childless so far has been the marriage of the queen of the Netherlands, where the absence of male or female issue will have the effect of bringing a German prince or princess to the throne.

I am aware that the name of Queen Elizabeth of Roumania is frequently included among the number of childless queens, and also that of Empress Josephine. But people seem to forget that "Carmen Sylva" had a little girl who died in early childhood, and that while Empress Josephine failed to bear any children to Emperor Napoleon, she had a son and a daughter by her first husband; the girl, Hortense de Beauharnais, becoming queen of the Netherlands and mother of Emperor Napoleon III., while the son, who figures in history as Prince Eugene, viceroy of Italy, became the founder of a family, the head of which is the now Russian duke of Leuchtenberg, Prince Romannowski, who ranks as a member of the Muscovite imperial family.

Immensely Valuable Bauble!

Apropos of King Edward's coronation I have never seen Napoleon made anywhere of the value of the crown with which the British monarch will eventually be invested in Westminster abbey. The minor stones alone have been estimated by the crown jewelers at $800,000, and this does not include any of the large sapphires, emeralds, rubies and diamonds, especially the immense ruby which once graced the coronet of the Black Prince, the magnificent huge sapphire in the center of the cross by which the crown is surmounted, and another equally large sapphire in the center of another Maltese cross in front of the crown above the rim. No definite value can be accorded to these great jewels. But according to a very conservative estimate the intrinsic worth of the crown is in the neighborhood of $4,500,000.

Political Monastery.

One of the shrewdest diplomats in the service of the czar, Privy Councilor Nicholas Iharionoff, who has lately been fulfilling the duties of consul general at Salonica, and as such had the direction of all that network of secret Muscovite intrigues by which the southeastern portion of Europe is honeycombed, has suddenly and without any warning resigned his position and entered holy orders as a monk in that wonderful monastery known as Mt. Athos, which, situated on Turkish soil, partakes more of the nature of a fortress within striking distance of Constantinople than of a religious establishment. It has all along been asserted that the monks of Mt. Athos, who number several thousand, most of them former soldiers and officers, were in reality a Russian outpost and more busily engaged in political intrigue than in their religious duties, and this being the case, one is tempted to ask whether the withdrawal of Privy Councilor Iharionoff from the world is due to piety or to politics.

Just before leaving Madrid for San Sebastian—it was on the afternoon of July 2 last—King Alfonso while coming down the steps of the palace with his mother and sister to go out driving, caught sight of a priest who, preceded by an acolyte, was bearing the last sacraments to some dying person. As soon as the royal party reached the foot of the steps, the king hastily dispatched an officer to request the priest to take his seat in the royal carriage, and then knelt until this had been done, the queen and all the gentlemen and ladies in attendance following his example. Thereupon the king gave directions that the carriage should proceed at a foot pace to the house to which the priest was bound, and himself with his gentlemen followed bareheaded behind it, until the sacraments had reached their destination. The spectacle recalled the historic scene in which Rudolph of Hapsburg, the founder of the imperial Austrian dynasty to which the king belongs, through his mother, figured in a similar manner.

PERSONALS.

The arrivals at the downtown hotels since Saturday afternoon were smaller than for any corresponding period for several months past. The hotel managers account for the falling off in the number of their guests by citing the immense passenger traffic on the railroads to the various summer resorts.

Dr. C. R. Smith, one of the resident physicians at the Homeopathic hospital for the past 18 months, was a passenger on the Pennsylvania limited last evening for his home in Lincoln, Neb., to enjoy a brief vacation. In tossing his dress suit case aboard the Pullman, he used a trifle too much force and smashed the expensive plate glass window in one of the vestibule doors. Assistant Station Master J. R. Bell, who witnessed the accident, demanded that Dr. Smith leave a deposit of $10 with him for the damage done, and as the train was about to start Dr. Smith said that he would settle the matter on the car with the conductor. This the official said would not do, and refused to permit Dr. Smith to go aboard until he had complied with the rules of the company and settled for the broken glass. The money was finally paid, Dr. Smith taking a receipt, but the matter caused the limited to be 10 minutes late in starting.

W. D. Hartupee, chief engineer of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company, went to St. Louis last night to inspect the various plants of the company. "The plants are all shut down just now," he said at the Union station, as he was about to take his train, "as is usual in July, but we are putting them all in shape to do a greater business than we have ever done before. The demand for window glass depends a great deal upon the extent of the building operations, and as the building boom is expected to be even greater in the future than it has been in the past, we expect to have it extend to the glass business."

James W. Platt, one of the executors of the will of the late Henry M. Bennett of the Bijou theater, left last evening for Freehold, N. J., where, by consent of the nephew and nieces of the deceased, who were contesting the document, the will is to be admitted to probate today, a compromise having been effected. Peter J. McNulty, another one of the executors from this city, went to Freehold on Friday night, carrying with him a New York draft for $15,000, which he said he would deliver to the contestants of the will in order to settle their withdrawal of the contest. John W. Hawkins of Asbury Park, N. J., the third executor, will also be present when the will is admitted to probate today. Mr. Platt said that as soon as the will was filed the executors would proceed to carry out its provisions and settle up the estate as far as practicable.

M. W. Jack, president of the Streator Bottle and Glass Company of Streator, Ill., was a passenger on the limited last evening from the east to his home. "I have been at Atlantic City for a few days attending the meeting called to settle the wage scale. There is very little new in our line, but I can safely say that the bottle manufacturers are going to make a grand effort to capture all the foreign trade. Germany has us foul in her bottle trade with Canada, and on account of the tariff can quote much lower prices there than we can. I believe that all the bottle men will advocate reciprocity for this reason, and then we can compete for the trade."

Col. O. P. Howell, U. S. A., and Wyndham R. White of Washington, D. C., were among the prominent arrivals at the Hotel Henry yesterday.

E. E. Bonneville, manager of the Hotel Henry, with Mrs. Bonneville, returned yesterday from a visit to Cambridge Springs.

The Man Who Will Rule.

In response to a gloomy letter in regard to possible future differences between capital and labor, and the query as to who shall be the guiding hand, the New York Sun says:

"In our opinion the man who is dead sure to rise to the occasion, whatever it may be, is the American citizen of average intelligence, average patriotism, average stake in the way of material interests, average conservatism and average common sense. He has been, is and will continue to be the ruling force in this republic. He will do. With him below in the cabin and with him below in the forecastle, always ready to come on deck when his presence is required, the ship is safe."

A Horse Would Be Easy.

From the London Chronicle.

The sometimes faultless logic of the lunatic is delightfully illustrated in the following dialogue: A visitor to an asylum saw a man capering along the hall astride of a stick. "Ah, ha!" said the visitor, wishing to be pleasant, "I see you are having a fine ride on your horse."

"This isn't a horse," answered the lunatic, contemptuously.

"Not a horse—what is it, then?"

"It's a hobby." was the reply; "if it was a horse I could get off."

A Righteous Judge.

From the Cleveland Leader.

The western judge who held that a dog had the right to bite a boy who tied a tin can to its tail has set an example in doing justice to dumb animals that should be followed elsewhere.

Survivors Still Working.

From the La Porte (Tex.) Chronicle.

The man who invented the roll top desk has just died, but the man who goes down to his office in the morning without his keys is still doing business at the same old stand.

LOCAL NEWS

OF ALL PITTSBURGH

In the Police Courts—Some 197 men disposed of by the various police magistrates of the two cities yesterday morning. Magistrate B. McKenna did some fast work at Central station, going over 103 cases in 85 minutes. Nearly all the offenders were arrested for trivial offenses and escaped with light fines or reprimands.

Condition Is Unchanged—The condition of Roy Whitley, the colored man shot in the back by Policeman Michael Rogal in Soho Saturday night, is unchanged. No effort was made by the physicians at Mercy hospital yesterday to probe for the bullet on account of his weak condition.

Fell From Stone Wall—William Hart of No. 435 Brownsville avenue, South Side, an employe of Jones & Laughlins' Eliza furnace, on Second avenue, fell from a stone wall near the Monongahela Connecting railroad bridge at 6 o'clock last night. He was injured internally and removed to the Mercy hospital.

Wrestled With Friend—Thomas Kinney, who says he has no home, went to No. 3 police station, last night, with a badly lacerated wound above the eye, which he received while wrestling with his friend, who accompanied him. After having his head dressed by Police Physician A. E. McCandless both men were locked up, charged with drunkenness.

Fire in Deserted House—A small blaze was discovered in an unoccupied house at No. 2848 Sarah street yesterday at 2:55 p. m., and an alarm sent in from box 611. The house is one owned by the P., V. & C. railroad and was until recently occupied by some of the laborers. A mattress that had been left on the second floor had been set on fire, presumably by boys. It was extinguished without damage.

For Stealing Tools—E. S. Stone of No. 1222 Federal street, Allegheny, will be given a hearing this afternoon before Police Magistrate Henry Hunneshagen on a charge of larceny, preferred by A. J. Chrisholm, a North Side contractor, who alleges that Stowe stole about $100 worth of tools belonging to him. Detectives Lees Einstein and Thomas J. O'Brien arrested Stowe late Saturday night.

Exhaustion Caused Death—Samuel Erwin of No. 2404 Fifth avenue died at the West Penn hospital at midnight on Saturday. He was knocked out of a wagon on Thursday evening last at Penn avenue and Thirteenth street in a collision with a street car. His foot was crushed and he was taken to the hospital. It is said he was intoxicated at the time and that his death was due to exhaustion caused by delirium tremens. He was a married man, 33 years old.

Charged With Larceny—Patrick Cunningham of 49 South Fifteenth street was arrested yesterday morning by Inspector William McShane of the South Side district on a warrant charging him with larceny. James O'Donnell, a former South Sider but now of Homestead, brings the charge. He alleges that he was intoxicated and asleep in the rear of Callahans' saloon, he was robbed of a gold watch and chain. He asserts that he was awakened by someone putting a hand into his trousers pocket and upon opening his eyes recognized Cunningham. Cunningham, who boards at the saloon, bears a good reputation.

Fell From Water Tank—Ernest Sutchel, aged 50 years, of Rising Main avenue, Allegheny, at 7:15 o'clock last night had his skull fractured and was hurt internally by falling from the big water tank on Nunnery hill. He is employed by the Allegheny public works department, and was working about the tank, when he slipped and fell, a distance of about 30 feet. He was picked up unconscious by some fellow workmen and carried to his home, a short distance from the scene of the accident. A physician was called who attended to his injuries. It is thought he cannot recover.

Small Penn Avenue Blaze—Fire was discovered in the rear of No. 3311 Penn avenue, occupied as a confectionery store by H. Landy, yesterday evening at 6:39 and damage to the amount of $1,500 was done before the blaze was extinguished. The fire started from some unknown cause in a pile of boxes, which were between the two rear wings of the building. The building is owned by ex-Senator John Upperman and was damaged to the extent of $600. The other damage was to stock and household furnishings of Landy and Thomas McDonald, who occupied part of the house.

CHAUTAUQUA.

Scottish Clergyman Would Not Use Creeds as Spiritual Bars.

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., July 27.—(Special.)—The sermon this morning was preached by the Rev. Dr. George Jackson of Edinburgh, Scotland. The real theme was a saying of one of the characters of Ralph Connor's "Black Rock."

"I have not much of a creed and I really don't know how much I believe, but I do know that good is good, and evil is bad, and good and bad are not the same; and I know that a man is a fool to follow the one and a wise man to follow the other, and I believe that God is back of the man that wants to have done with the bad."

Dr. Jackson had a good word to say for Ralph Connor's novels.

"They are stories which, whoever or by whomsoever they may be read, will make for moral help, for purity and for righteousness," said he. "Frankly and avowedly religious, they are without the suspicion of mawkish sentiment or cant, and are just the kind of books to help a young man to realize the power and worth of a truly Christian life."

In speaking of creeds he said:

"The great question about creed is not how long is it, but how in living is it real, is it a creed to lean on and to live by? These great ancient creeds in which many of us are able to find spiritual help and comfort are for other men only stumbling blocks on the threshold of their Christian life. To emphasize these is to only accentuate their difficulties. To tell them that they must accept them is to shut the door of hope in their face at the very outset and, really, is it necessary to begin with these? Was that Christ's way? When did he insist on a full acquaintance with and an unhesitating acceptance of the whole circle of Christian truth as an indispensable preliminary to Christian discipleship?

"Let a man begin where he can begin; and let him make his own ever so simple a creed, as this I have just read, and you will find that if he be true to it, he will walk in a path which, though today it runs into the shadow of twilight, will lead him at length out into the shadowless noon of the eternal truth."

CELEBRITIES IN CAMP.

John D. Rockefeller, Some of the Roosevelts and Gov. Stone There.

PAUL SMITHS, N. Y., July 27.—(Special.)—John D. Rockefeller reached here this morning, accompanied by his son-in-law, Cyrus H. McCormick of Chicago, and his electric launch conveyed him to the elaborate McCormick camp on the Upper St. Regis. At the camp Mr. Rockefeller found his daughters, Mrs. McCormick and Mrs. Prentis of Chicago.

Miss Helen Roosevelt, daughter of I. R. Roosevelt, who has the camp Elsimore, on the Upper St. Regis, is at the camp, with Mrs. Cowles, sister of President Roosevelt. It is expected that Miss Alice Roosevelt will join them on Tuesday.

Gov. William A. Stone of Pennsylvania, accompanied by Mrs. Stone, is making his headquarters at Paul Smiths. Gov. Stone takes a great interest in fishing and will make several pilgrimages with Aivah Bennett, the guide, during his stay.

MRS. ASTOR'S BALLROOM.

It Will Be Warmed by a Splendid Party on Friday, August 29.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 27.—(Special.)—The date of Mrs. William Astor's ball is announced. It is Friday, August 29, just the height of the season when everybody who has a residence here is in town, and many others will have arrived for the horse show of the following Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

This event will be a sort of "house warming" for Mrs. Astor's new ballroom, upon which mechanics and artists have been at work some time. By working day and night it is promised that the room will be ready for use in 14 days more.

Floods in Luzon.

MANILA, July 27.—The typhoon which prevailed over central Luzon is subsiding. Telegraph and telephone wires are prostrated. Floods have prevailed in central Luzon and considerable damage has been done.

REPUBLICANS ARE NOT A UNIT FOR HENDERSON

Likely to Need Aid of Party Leaders to Again Make Him Speaker.

LITTLEFIELD IS RUNNING

Man From Maine May Possibly Become Man of Hour in Opposition. Too Good a Fighter to Combine All Elements, However.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, 605 Fifteenth St., N. W. WASHINGTON, D. C., July 27.

As is the rule in every congressional year about this time, gossip is rife in political circles about the organization of the next congress if the Republicans are again successful in securing a majority. That the Republicans will be successful this year is practically conceded by many of the Democrats, but among the Republicans it is not conceded that Speaker D. B. Henderson will be re-elected to succeed himself. On the contrary, there is a strong belief with some that Mr. Henderson cannot be re-elected if the recognized party leaders like Senators Quay, Platt of New York and Hanna, will keep their hands off the contest.

For more than two years the opposition to Mr. Henderson has been growing, and he might have been defeated last December if the three leaders named had kept hands off, but all were interested in his success and that of the other officers of the house. Senator Quay wanted Clerk McDowell of Pennsylvania re-elected, Senator Platt desired the same success for the then doorkeeper, W. J. Glenn of New York, and Senator Hanna desired the retention in office of Postmaster McElroy, Reading Clerk Lampson and other Ohioans, and the aims of the three could be best secured by forming a coalition with the friends of the speaker. They did so, and there was no opposition to the re-election of the whole slate.

Open Revolt Threatened.

But the unpopularity of Speaker Henderson has spread, and those who are opposed to his re-election as speaker are more numerous than before. That the speaker is arbitrary cannot be denied, and that he is not the same man that he was when only a member, even his close friends do not attempt to deny. So rough has been his treatment of some of the members that it has been all that his lieutenants could do to prevent frequent open revolts. As it was, on several occasions the speaker was openly criticised, and the attack made upon him in the open house by Representative Cushman was but the expression of the real opinion of nearly a majority of the members.

The complaint against the speaker was that he believed that he was the "whole thing," and he did not relish any opposition to his demands. When he announced his decision his lieutenants went to work to obey his orders without regard to their real opinions. When the speaker took snuff, his lieutenants all sneezed.

However, while the opposition against the re-election of Mr. Henderson is strong, it is not organized, and in fact does not seem to have a candidate whom it could elect if the three potent senators again decide upon the re-election of Mr. Henderson. Representative Littlefield of Maine is often mentioned nowadays for this honor. He is a man of marked ability and might make a good speaker, but his weakness lies in his independence. Time and again he has fought against the wishes of the party leaders, sometimes with success and sometimes with defeat, but, while he has proven to be a stubborn opponent, he has at the same time aroused the opposition of those who control. About the only chance that he would have in gaining the speakership would be as a dark horse in a contest between two factions, but his record does not make him available as a leader of a faction. If Senators Quay, Platt and Hanna would consent to keep hands off and allow an open contest the opposition, under the lead of Mr. Littlefield, might bring about the defeat of Mr. Henderson, but for the reasons named in the first paragraph it is more than probable that the powerful trio will reiterate the "leave well enough alone" idea and insist upon a re-election of the entire slate.

Addicks Still a Worry.

Another effort is now under way to get the Republican factions in Delaware together before the fall campaign is on. At present there are no senators from that state because of the fight, although the legislature and state government is Republican. As a consequence, the Democrats are hard at work, realizing that if they win this fall they will capture both senatorships and a representative in congress and at the same time split the Republican factions wider than ever. This is a condition that should not exist and the Republican leaders are endeavoring to have the Addicks and Dupont factions of Delaware Republicans get together and elect Messrs. Addicks and Dupont to the senate at a special session of the legislature which will be called for that purpose alone. Of the 29 Republicans composing the majority of the legislature, 22 are in favor of the election of Mr. Addicks and the others are opposed to that action and will not go into the party caucus. Neither will not yield and both are hoping that by forcing the election over they can defeat each other. But there is too much at stake for the Republicans to allow the deadlock to exist much longer.

The Democrats of the Blue Hen state are harmonious and have agreed that if they carry the legislature ex-Senator Kenny shall be re-elected and the other toga shall go to Willard Salisbury. As the state has only become Republican in the past few years it seems that the Republicans should be compelled to bury their differences and especially when two United States senatorships are at stake.

Consumption

Nearly all early cases can be cured. Expert physicians tell us they rely largely on three things—fresh air, good food, and Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. If the case is advanced, recovery is more uncertain. Follow your doctor's orders. That's best.

"I had a terrible cold on my lungs. I feared I might have consumption. Nothing seemed to give me relief until I used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It acted promptly and cured me completely."—Miss Emma Miller, Fort Snelling, Minn.

News From the Rivers.

At 9 o'clock last night the stage of water at Davis Island dam was 2.5 feet and falling.

The Monongahela river marks at the foot of Market street yesterday afternoon showed 8.2 feet, or a fall of eight inches in 24 hours. The excursion business was very heavy on the river yesterday.

The Gertrude of the Morgantown Packet line made her regular Sunday morning trip and carried a big crowd of passengers, all the state rooms being engaged. The usual trip will be made today at 3 o'clock, for which a number of places have been booked.

One of the largest crowds of the season went to Morgantown Saturday night on the Elizabeth, and they were nearly all booked for the round trip. The officers of the boat were hard pressed for proper accommodations and extra cots had to be borrowed from the Gertrude and other packets.

The movement of coal in the harbor yesterday was confined to the dropping down from the upper pools, by the Maggie and Tom Moren, of a number of loaded coal boats and barges to make up the tows for the larger boats going south. The Tom Rees No. 2 started down with 12 coal boats and 8 barges late in the afternoon, and the Coal City followed in the evening with a tow equally as large.

BAD DEFEAT FOR CASTRO.

One Thousand Reinforcements Were Whipped and Driven Back.

PORT OF SPAIN, TRINIDAD, July 27.—The Venezuelan revolutionary general, Luciano Mendoza, learning that President Castro was receiving reinforcements from Trujillo, awaited near Alto de La Palma with a body of these reinforcements 1,000 strong under command of Lepoldo Baptista. An engagement ensued, resulting in the defeat of the reinforcements and the capture of their ammunition. The forces of Baptista were driven back to Carache.

Three thousand Haitiens commanded by Gen. St. Foix Colin, military commander at Port au Prince, started today to oppose Gen. Jean Jumeau, who supports the candidacy of M. Firmin. It is expected that a decisive action will take place today.

OIL INTEREST IS NOW CENTERED IN WEST VIRGINIA'S GORDON SAND

Interest in the eastern fields is centered almost exclusively in the lower southwest, and has shifted from the Ohio side to the new developments in West Virginia. The new Keener sand pool, in Ritchie county, looked like a Klondike a week ago, but discoveries of the past few days makes the outlook less promising and gives it very much the appearance of a "freak" pool.

When Mallory Bros. & Co. drilled their test through the sand last Thursday and found they had a duster in the formation where they had expected a gusher, there was consternation, made all the more forcible from the fact that its location is only 500 feet from the Three Joes Oil Company's gusher on the Leroy Wagner farm. It was quite natural that they should expect a producer of some kind in the Keener, notwithstanding the gusher had had a pull of nearly four weeks on the surrounding territory.

This, however, was not the only surprise in that locality. On Saturday an unconfirmed report was received to the effect that the Three Joes Oil Company's well on the Wagner farm was through the sand and dry. Like the previous duster this location is but 500 feet from the well.

While the two dusters do not necessarily confirm the possibility of an extension to the pool, it must be admitted that they very much resemble the character. Another feature was developed when the Three Joes Company shot its gusher, with 20 quarts of high explosive behind and increased the production but 200 barrels a day. The well was producing 500 barrels a day when it was shot. It was expected that when sucked up it would increase its production to at least 1,000 barrels a day. The present week will very nearly determine the future status of the Ritchie county pool. The Keener formation on the West Virginia side has never been noted for its regularity and the indications are that the new pool will do nothing to change the impression.

West of Bonds creek pumping station is another Keener sand development that is growing in interest. The Associated Producers' Company completed a test on the William Campbell farm and secured a 75-barrel producer. The district shows considerable activity.

The new Gordon sand development in Wetzel and Marion counties, is furnishing a greater number of good producers than any other in West Virginia. One of the commendable features of the wells in this territory is their staying qualities. Gushers have not figured to any extent till the last week, when the South Penn Oil Company drilled in its No. 5 on the Jacob Cunningham farm and secured a producer that started at 1,000 barrels a day. This district has a greater number of wells producing more than 100 barrels a day than any other in the lower southwest. There are 16 wells ranging in production from 100 to 700 barrels a day. The aggregate of these and the smaller wells must now be more than 3,000 barrels a day and increasing rapidly. There are 44 wells drilling and four rigs up in the field. The producing territory is known to be more than five miles long and a mile in width. Neither its length or breadth have been fully defined.

While there is less known of the Littleton district, in Wetzel county, it is generally accepted as promising and will show marked activity in the near future. This territory has been tested for a distance of three miles on a northeast and southwest line. The Philadelphia Company is the most active operator in this district at the present time.

The well drilled in on the Amos Sidel farm by E. H. Jennings & Bros. opens a two-mile extension to the Pine Grove fields. It is quite likely that this development will eventually connect up with the old Rocky run field. From the foregoing it can be seen that the Gordon sand territory will lead with new production and operation during the remainder of the year.

The Salem district, in Harrison and Doddridge counties, must not be lost sight of when reckoning with the Gordon sand developments. This district can lay claim to some very fine producers. Operations do not extent over so large an area as some of the others, but there is still enough undeveloped territory to make it a busy spot for some months to come. During this week O'Day & Gaffian shot their second test on the J. W. Custer farm and increased its production to 700 barrels a day.

The new Keener sand pool, near Jerusalem, in Monroe county, O., is not coming up to what was expected of it two months ago. The producing limits have not been extended during the month and the old wells have declined.

During the month four wells were completed and two deep tests, 2,000 barrels of new production. One was a total failure and condemned an eastern extension to the pool. The Ohio side of the river has no other attraction at the present time.

The local fields are quiet and show no signs of a revival in field work. At Legionville a few good producers are coming in, but the limits of the field have been defined.

LAST SERMON SUNDAY OF SUMMER FOR MANY CHURCHES

INSPIRATION OF BIBLE UPHELD BY MINISTER

The Rev. Dr. E. M. Wood Declares That the Scripture is God's Word.

IT IS NOT ALL REVEALED

Everything That Is Included in Holy Writ Is Not a Direct Communication, but Writers Were Inspired to Put Thoughts Into Words.

In the Fifth Avenue Methodist Episcopal church yesterday morning the Rev. Dr. E. M. Wood, pastor, delivered a learned discourse on "Is the Bible Inspired? In What Sense?"

"The spiritual and material, divine and human," said Dr. Wood, "are closely allied. We find this same principle to a great extent exemplified in the Bible, this affiliation, as it were, or connection between things human and divine.

"In the Bible, we find many thoughts, ideas, expressions that are merely human, that are neither inspired nor revealed. But this is no argument against the Bible's being the word of God, the inspired word, the revealed word of God. Many things are termed 'inspired,' but not all things are said to be 'inspired by

THE REV. DR. E. M. WOOD.

God.' For instance Shakespeare, great man that he was, great writer and one of the brightest men in the imaginative world of his day, never claimed that the Holy Ghost inspired him, though he has given us some memorable phrases, lessons, and parables of various kinds in his works.

Source of Inspiration.

"There is an inspiration that comes from scenes about us. For instance, the sight of the sun at its going down, may inspire some poet to write in verse something that will throw us into raptures. We would hardly say that God inspired him, rather we should, and more accurately that the works of God inspired him, the beauty of God's workings in nature, his care of things in the natural order.

"But when we speak of God inspiring men to write things concerning the proper life for one to lead, or hurling his wrath against some wicked city, then we have reference to the inspired word of God; that is to say that God inspired his prophets to write His word.

"And why not? If we admit that certain men were called of God, were called in those early days to guide His people and warn them against the snares of corrupt life and living, surely we must conclude that He had a direct care over them, that their lives were dedicated to the carrying out of His law, and, therefore, He inspired them to write the things they wrote and the things they said.

More Than Amanuenses.

"Some hold that the writers of the sacred book were but a sort of amanuenses of God, or to put in a more modern figure, phonographs, which reproduces what is put into them. But they were more than any of these. They were human beings, intelligent, learned, fit for their sacred calling. They understood things just as they existed. Some people in speaking of the Bible, say 'revealed' or 'inspired.' Not all things in the Bible are revealed, and yet all are inspired. Where God gives His direct word viva voce to the prophets, where they act as it were as amanuenses taking down word by word in their hearts, then we have revelation, or revealed truth. In a word, by revealed truth we mean where God speaks directly to the individual.

Ancient Men Inspired.

"For instance, Moses on the mount. Here we have a direct revelation of what was to be. What is the result? Moses comes down from the mount, his whole being afire. He brings with him the ten commandments. These have come down to us from all ages. They are our inheritance. Again we have Isaiah and several of the other prohpets crying out, 'God came to me, and said.' Here we have God revealing some things unto them, and inspiring them to do others. No man can gainsay the divine origin of this book of books.

"But we must not expect too much of it. In coming down through the long ages, there have been mishaps, probably wrong interpretation into different languages, and the like. But as it is, it is inspired. It is God's word to us. Let us hear it. Let it be our guide in the dark night. Let its words cheer us onward until the day opens, until we see Him face to face in all His wondrous beauty.

YOUNG PEOPLE OF TODAY WORLDLY

REV. J. R. GAULT WARNS PARENTS OF THEIR RESPONSIBILTY.

While Occuping Pulpit of Eighth Street Reformed Presbyterian Church Tells of Occasions for Sin Offered to Young Men and Women.

The services in the Eighth Street Reformed Presbyterian church were conducted yesterday by the Rev. J. R. Gault of New Alexandria, Pa. The Rev. Dr. David McAllister, pastor, is summering in the hills above Connellsville. Mr. Gault spoke in the afternoon from the text, "Harken to Me, yet that follow after righteousness, yet that seek the Lord: look unto the rock whence ye are hewn, and to the hole of the pit whence ye are digged." Isaiah li:1.

"The world," said Mr. Gault, in the course of his sermon, "is too prone to treat betimes the words of scripture as mere gossip of the prophets. What we need nowadays is a deeper and more wholesome respect for the sayings of them that have gone before us. The prophet in this text bids us look out and beware; look out and afar on the road whence we travel, beware of what we are, what we have been, what is expected of them that seek righteousness.

Question of Advice.

"It is a fatherly advice. Here it is not a question of doctrine or of discussion, but one of advice. Is it not a fact that the older we become the older the world grows, the less respect and attention we pay to the counsel of our fathers. Take the young men, and some of the young women of our day. The moment they are of age, some before they reach that 'delightful pinnacle,' declare their independence of paternal authority. They will perchance, listen to some 'talk the old man puts through him,' but it slips into one ear and out the other. I tell you, my friends, God will hold parents responsible to a certain extent for the sins of their children.

"There are numerous homes in the country where the children are allowed to grow up minus that counsel which they should have, minus that strong determination of the parents to insist that they do what is right, and avoid the wrong. It is not enough for parents to tell their children to do this and avoid that; but they are bound before God to see and insist that their children do right, and avoid wrong while they are under the parental care.

Rein Should Be Tight.

"There's something wrong here, my friends. The young people of the land are too worldly, too fond of the things that are of the world, too fond of dances, parks, theaters and excursions! No parent is justified before God in permitting his children, especially the young women, to go to boat excursions, theaters or places of public amusement without some member of the family as an escort. No parent is justified in sending his children to these resorts, if he knows them to be even a remote occasion for sin, no matter how pure or guileless his children may be.

"We must avoid even the remote occasion of sin. The young man and the young woman must be kept away from things that would cause them to become lax in their zeal for their own salvation. They must be taught to look to the rock whence they are hewn and the hole of the pit whence they are digged. It is our duty to see that they keep on the path of righteousness.

"What a blessing for parents when their hair turns color to know that their children are good men and women, and to know that they are so because they have harkened to the advice given them in the home life."

REOPENED CHURCH.

McMasters Methodist Episcopal Congregation of Turtle Creek Held Special Services Yesterday.

The congregation of the McMasters Methodist Episcopal church of Turtle Creek, yesterday held special services for the reopening of the edifice, which has been closed for repairs and a thorough renovation the past four months. The church has been raised and removed to a new foundation, and has been beautifully redecorated. There was special music at both the morning and evening services. The morning sermon was preached by the Rev. Charles W. Smith of Wilkinsburg, editor of the Pittsburgh Christian Advocate. Last evening the first pastor, the Rev. William T. Slease, who organized the congregation in 1871, delivered the sermon. The choir is directed by S. S. Waters, and the organist, Mrs. Pluma Harvey. There was an Epworth league rally at 6:30 o'clock.

The present edifice was erected through the work of the Rev. William T. Slease, in the second year of his pastorate, 1872, being dedicated in February of that year.

There was a debt on the church of $3,500 when the Rev. A. E. Husted took charge. The sum was raised last year. The charges and repairs cost $2,000, and the last $800 of this was raised yesterday. The congregation now numbers about 275, one of the largest in the valley.

BUSH MEETING WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

SECOND SUNDAY IN CASTLE SHANNON GROVE WAS LIVELY.

Colored People Sang Old Campmeeting Hymns With Fervor and Melody, and Talks of the Speakers Received the Closest Attention.

"Roll, Jordan, roll! Roll, Jordan, roll!
"I want to go to heaven when I die,
"To hear sweet Jordan roll."

Castle Shannon grove, on the Castle Shannon railroad, responded yesterday afternoon with the fervent, melodious and enthusiastic singing of all the favorite camp meeting melodies known to a hundred or more colored people, who were holding the second and last of their bush meetings in the large pavillion. Both meetings have been well attended by the colored people of the city and vicinity, and a number of white people have also been attentive listeners to the sermons, lectures and singing.

The exercises yesterday afternoon commenced shortly after 2 o'clock, and were opened with prayer by the Rev. H. J. Williams, county missionary of Allegheny county. The sermon was by the Rev. T. J. ("Broadax") Smith, who took for his text, "Equality of the Christian Church," and the fervent "amens," which were frequently heard during his discourse added much to the impressiveness of the occasion.

At the conclusion of the Rev. Smith's address all joined in singing "The Gospel Train," with organ accompaniment, and "Get on Board, Children, Get on Board" filled the woods with its melody. This was followed by "Roll, Jordan, Roll," and then the Rev. Mr. Smith considered that he had the assembled multitude sufficiently enthused to pass the hat for a small collection, in which he said he hoped to receive at least $1 50. While another melody was being sung the hat made a circle of the pavillion and a count of the result found only 91 cents. "Indeed, I would like to have at least 99 cents more," said the Rev. Mr. Smith, "and I presume the only way to get it is to go around again," and he did so with great success, securing 75 cents.

The services were conducted with solos by George W. Lee, a basso, who sang "Down in the Deep Deep" and "All Hail," and by the crowd singing an old camp meeting song, describing the most important events contained in the Bible, commencing with Adam and Eve and continuing down to modern times. A recess of 15 minutes was then taken until 4 o'clock, when the Rev. C. P. Logan of Braddock delivered a lecture, taking for his subject, "Five Thousand Years of the Negro History." The Rev. Mr. Logan is one of the foremost negro lecturers in this section of the country and he received the closest attention.

In the course of his address he said that the negroes were the first monarchs of the world, that they were the original discovers of astronomy and many other sciences; that Solomon and the queen of Sheba were negroes; that the negroes were the first people to own slaves, and that the world has never yet received a complete history of the negro race. "The negro is the first of God's creation," he declared, "and if you do not believe my statement take the gospel and study it and you will come to that belief."

SECRET STRENGTH OF THE TRUE CHRISTIAN

The Rev. J. A. Jayne Says It Lies in His Closeness to God and His Word.

"A Vacation Resolution" was the subject of the Rev. John A. Jayne's sermon yesterday morning in the Observatory Hill church. "We are all going somewhere," he said, "doing something or being somebody. We are somebody good or are somebody bad. Life is a journey. We enter life at the way station of birth, we cross the bridge of youth, climb the grade of manhood, push through the tunnel of trouble and in old age go down grade into the grand central station of death. No man liveth to himself, no man dieth to himself. By the words we speak, the deeds we do, we make mention. Just as the child Samuel revealed his training in obedience as he answered the call of Eli, so we reveal our training and our aims in life by the way we live. Our lives reveal our mission, our aims and our destination.

"We often ask what is the secret of a Carnegie's power, a Washington's will or a Lincoln's achievement. And there are many answers. But the Christian's secret of strength is in God. He who lives with his eye single toward God, with his heart right in the sight of God, and his life in common with God, has found the Christian's secret of strength."

Plumbers Send Ultimatum.

NEW CASTLE, PA., July 27.—(Special)—The striking plumbers at a special meeting last night, agreed to give the master plumbers until Tuesday morning to accept their terms. The journeymen insist that no more than two members of a firm be allowed to handle tools, and they also wish it understood that a sympathetic strike will not be considered a violation of their agreement.

Hundreds of cases pronounced to be Consumption have been cured by Dr. D. Jayne's Expectorant.

CHANGES IN SCHADULE

Union Services in Valley Begin Next Sunday, While Pastors Rusticate.

A number of changes have been found necessary in the schedule of services to be held by the Monongahela valley congregations uniting with each other during August, since the plan was first decided upon. The union services will be held under the auspices of the Braddock Ministerial association, which includes all the evangelical denominations of Braddock, Rankin, North Braddock and East Pittsburgh boroughs.

The various churches last evening closed their regular services until September. The first union services will be held next Sunday evening in Calvary Presbyterian church, by the Rev. George E. Hawes of the Parker Avenue United Presbyterian church; Sunday, August 10, in First Congregational church, sermon by the Rev. J. Sala Leland of the First Methodist Protestant church; Sunday, August 24, services in First Christian church, sermon by the Rev. William H. Slade of the First Congregational church; Sunday, August 31, in Parker Avenue United Presbyterian church, sermon by the Rev. Dr. Nicholson H. Holmes, D. D., of the First Methodist Episcopal church.

WORSHIPED IN THE NEW CHURCH

SECOND U. P. CONGREGATION ALSO CELEBRATED ANNIVERSARY.

The Rev. Dr. D. S. Littell, One of Long-Service Ministers of This District, Talked On "Christ's Plans and Specifications for His Church."

The congregation of the Second United Presbyterian church worshipped, yesterday, for the first time in the handsome new edifice at the corner of Negley and Stanton avenues. The services were not held in the church proper, as it is not entirely completed, but in the basement which has been temporarily fitted out. There was an unusually large attendance at all the services.

The day had a double signification for the congregation, as it not only marked the opening of the new edifice, but likewise the sixteenth anniversary of the Rev. Dr. D. S. Littell's pastorate among them. Dr. Littell is one of the oldest ministers in the United Presbyterian church in this vicinity and delivered a sermon appropriate to the occasion, his subject being "Christ's Plans and Specifications for His Church."

"Men plan and specify what may be the result of material work on a church," he said, "but Christ Himself planned and specified the great work of His church, which is essentially a soul-saving institution. The work of His church will ever be the same.

"We may rear gigantic temples in which to sing His praises, but in the hut-church of the Sierras His work can be carried out, if one will, as easily and with the same end in view, as from the pulpits of a great city edifice. It is a good thing to rear stately temples to God, but it is a better thing to keep God's law and help all men and all women to do so."

LAST OF PARK SERVICES DREW BIG AUDIENCE

They Will Be Resumed in the Early Autumn By Dr. S. Edward Young.

GREAT TENT TO BE MOVED

It Will Be Spread In Friendship Park and Another One Has Been Ordered—The Daily Outdoor Service Has Proven of Great Benefit.

In the neighborhood of 1,000 people attended the services last night in Schenley park, conducted by the Rev. Dr. S. Edward Young. It was the final park service of the season, Dr. and Mrs. Young leaving for Allenhurst, N. J., where they will spend the vacation period. Dr. Young expects to resume the park services early in the fall.

In the meantime the Presbyterian evangelistic committee of Pittsburgh and Allegheny will continue the outdoor work during the entire vacation month. As stated in The Gazette, Dr. Young has given them the huge tent used by him in Schenley park. This will be stretched in Friendship park tomorrow night, and it is expected to hold services under it Wednesday evening. Another large tent has been ordered. Meetings will be held at every available place.

The committee has had communications from all parts of the city requesting that tent meetings be held. Altogether at the end of one month's probation the outdoor service under the auspices of the Presbyterians of the two cities has proved of great good to scores of people. The services during every night of the vacation month will be in charge of the Rev. A. H. Jolly. In some places elders will preach.

The Gernert orchestra proved quite an attraction at the park services last night. Mr. Butts sang "America" and a chorus carried out, if one will, as easily and with the same end in view, as from the pulpits of a great city edifice. It is a good thing to rear stately temples to God, but it is a better thing to keep God's law and help all men and all women to do so."

Dr. Young's Sermon.

In the old city of Damascus was shown a street called "straight." At this point Dr. Young made an apt remark regarding Pittsburgh. "What a good name," he said, "for a street in Pittsburgh! representing straight in business, straight morally, and straight politically."

This was followed by scenes of the holy lands, including the Mammertine prison, into which the Apostle Paul is believed to have been thrown. In the course of his sermon, Dr. Young said: "God has a life course for you to run. All the better promptings of your nobler nature, all the persuasion of His Spirit would keep you in it. No moment can be so sublime as the one at the course's end wherein you can exultingly declare I have finished my course. To keep the faith in these days of doubt is a quiet victory worth everything beside. Now and then it seems something or somebody we tied our trust to gives way. Really, though, the great heart of Christianity is believed more by mankind now than ever. Not in any past hour would the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount have received such a tremendous vote as they would now. Disbelieve your doubts and believe your beliefs."

ANTIS PLEASED WITH SMITH ORDER

EXPRESS GRATIFICATION WITH PRESIDENT'S REVIEW OF CASE.

Take Issue With Him, However, in Statement That Cruelty in Philippines Is Only Isolated and General Conduct of Army Is Good.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

LAKE GEORGE, N. Y., July 27.—At a meeting of representative anti-imperialists held in New York city last spring a committee was appointed to investigate army conditions in the Philippines. That committee has since then been prosecuting its inquiries. President Roosevelt's recent review of the court-martial of Gen. Jacob H. Smith seemed to the committee to demand some reply, and at a meeting just held at Lake George, an open letter to the president was adopted. The letter was signed by Charles Francis Adams, chairman; Carl Schurz, Edwin Burritt Smith, Moorfield Storey and Herbert Welsh. It says:

"We desire to express the gratification afforded us by your review of the 14th instant as commander-in-chief, of the findings of the court-martial in the case of Gen. J. H. Smith. Taken in connection with the previous memorandum of April 15, that review will, provided it be followed by corresponding general action, in our opinion, do much toward the re-establishment of the national prestige and the restoration of the morale of the army. Especially opportune, in our judgment is your very commendable reminder to officers in high and responsible positions, that in a warfare with national dependents, such as that recently waged by us in the east, it behooves all such officers to be peculiarly careful in their bearing and conduct as to keep a moral check over any acts of an improper character by their subordinates."

Following this the letter contains a general complaint against the Philippine policy of the government, and takes issue with the statement of the president that acts of cruelty are only isolated cases and the general conduct of the army is above reproach.

TALKED OF WORK FOR UNFORTUNATES

The Rev. W. J. Russell Reminds Congregation That Jesus Labored Among the Lowly.

"Jesus, the Model Worker," was the subject of the Rev. W. J. Russell's sermon in the East End Christian church yesterday morning. "Jesus," he said, "did not let the character of the Samaritan woman interfere with His mission. We are too apt to be interested only in the respectable and moral class, and forget that Jesus had great mercy on great sinners. He teaches that the most degraded have a soul worth saving. He ever recognized the rights and the wants of the poor, and was touched with a deep interest in and sympathy for the unfortunate.

"Let us remember that it is part of our mission to go and encourage the poor—to seek the friendless, the forsaken, the desponding and the lost. Never let the man be lost in the poor or outcast. Endeavor to awaken in them the consciousness of their relation to God, and their immortality, that their homes may become consecrated places, the abode of love, the house of God and the gate of heaven."

TO STUDY MISSIONS.

Three Conferences of Young People to Be Held During Coming Year.

NEW YORK, July 27.—As a result of its recent meetings at Silver Bay, N. Y., the Young People's missionary conference has decided to hold three similar conferences in the south and another in the middle west. In these conferences it is proposed to gather the leaders rather than the other members of the local societies.

The plan also provides for the organization of study classes on various phases of mission work, home as well as foreign, and of missionary societies, district and local; the preparation of an information bureau for the benefit of leaders in the study classes and missionary meetings, editors, officers of missionary societies and others, assistance in district and denominational conferences, and in any emergencies that may arise calling for information or aid.

League Games Today.

Brooklyn at New York.

St. Louis, Mo., July 27.—The greatest game of baseball seen here this season, full of excitement and brilliant plays, and resulting in a nose finish between the Cardinals and the Pirates, in which the former won out by the score of 7 to 6, was witnessed this afternoon at League park by 13,500 persone.

By defeating the champions in the final game of the series of five the Donovanites achieved the honor of being the only team in the league to take a series of games from the pennant winners, as well as the only team to take two games in succession from Clarke's heretofore invincible band.

Donovan sent in his famous O'Neill battery to take the last game, while Clarke sent Doheny to the slab. Doheny was never effective today, and the Cardinals stole a lead of seven runs in three innings, which not even the brilliant rally put up by the visitors and the tardy remedy of putting Phillippe in the box, could overcome.

Phillipe Relieved Doheney.

Phillippe pitched but one inning, the eighth, but he showed winning form then, not allowing a hit out the diamond and striking out one of the three men who faced him.

On Saturday the Cardinals were shut out with one hit and one run, which latter was a free gift from O'Connor. Today the Donovanites struck their hitting gaze, playing fast ball from the fall of the flag, and won the third game out of the five on its merits.

The four runs in the second inning were the result of a pretty exhibition of consecutive hitting. Donovan led off with a bingle. Farrell walked. Kruger was out to Bransfield unassisted. Hartman and J. O'Neill singled. Mike O'Neill forced J. O'Neill at second. Nichols singled and Smoot was safe on Bransfield's muff of Ritchey's throw. Barclay ended the agony by lining out to Ritchey.

St. Louis Scored Again.

In the next inning Farrell tripled, Kruger sent a short fly to right which Tannehill tried desperately to trap. He could not quite reach it and the hit went for a triple. Hartman's hot hit to Burke let Kruger score.

P. J. Donovan scored the seventh and winning run for the Cardinals all by his lonesome. It as in the fifth inning and the Pirates had not yet got a man across the plate. The game looked like a gift to St. Louis.

P. J. did not dally a bit when he saw Conroy throw his dinky tap wild to Bransfield. When he stopped running he was safe on third. One man was already gone, when Farrell popped out to Conroy.

Donovon started for home as soon as the ball touched Conroy's mit, and despite the big shortstop's line throw to the plate and Zimmer's perfect receipt thereof, Donovan slid over the plate half a second before Zimmer put the ball on him. It was one of the prettiest exhibitions of base running seen here since Padden stole home in the American league.

Pirates Took a Brace.

The Cardinals had now shot their bolt, but the Pirates were just beginning. In the very next inning they got together with their hits, their aggressive coaching and their brilliant base running, and when the side had been retired they had wiped out four of the seven runs acquired by the Cardinals in the early stages of the game.

Clarke, as usual, started the run-getting. He doubled over third base line after Doheny had flied out to Smoot. Then Beaumont beat out a rap to Nichols. Ritchey's single scored Clarke. Tannehill being hit by the pitcher, the bags were all covered and the Pirates were putting up a terrific cross-fire of coaching from the lines which seemed to worry O'Neill not a little.

Bransfield's short fly was eaten up by Kruger, but Burke's single drove two men in. Conroy hit to Kruger, who threw to Farrell in plenty of time to put out Burke, but Farrell dropped the throw and the bags were full again. Zimmer rapped smartly to Farrell, who hesitated and was lost.

Tannehill Scored.

Tannehill scored and Burke started for home behind him. Farrell finally decided to throw to first, but too late. Zimmer was already there. By a wonderfully quick recovery and perfect throw, Nichols jobbed Burke out at the plate and retired the side.

In the eighth Tannehill opened up with a double to left and Bransfield hit to Kruger, who threw wild, and Tannehill scored. Burke and Conroy singled in succession, driving in Bransfield. Zimmer flew out to center and Doheny to left.

It was 7 to 6 now and Clarke took Doheny out of the box in favor of Phillippe. The latter sent the Cardinals to the bench in one-two-three order in the eighth, and with O'Neill plainly weakening, it looked squally for the Cardinals in the ninth. But Beaumont was terribly unlucky, his first attempt to bunt resulting in a little fly, which Catcher O'Neill ate up. Then Ritchey sent a scorcher straight at the pitcher. The latter threw up his hand and deflected the ball straight into Farrell's glove and the runner was thrown out at first. Tannehill ended the battle by striking out.

As the players were leaving the diamond some one in the big crowd which was cheering the Donovan men threw a clod at Clarke. He lost his head and charged the crowd, but policemen interfered before he received anything more than a serious jostling. Clarke pointed out the man who threw the clod and he was arrested. Score:

BALL PLAYERS ARE EXPELLED

Resolutions Adopted Against Contract Jumpers—Members Claim No One Will Stand for McGraw.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, July 27.—Members of the Baseball Players' Protective association, at their meeting, held in this city this afternoon at the Sturtevant house, decided to expel from membership every man who has jumped his contract.

Perhaps the most significent feature about the meeting was that delegates from the American league were largely in predominance and that most of them, who had jumped from National league clubs were loudest in their talk about punishing contract-jumpers. All of which made some players who were in the hotel, but not at the meeting, smile more than once.

The delegates present were Frank Donohue St. Louis American league club; Fielder Jones and Clark Griffith, Chicago American league club; Winnie Mercer, Detroit; Harry Davis and "Topsy" Hartzell, Philadelphia American league club; "Aleck" Smith, Baltimore; Charles Fraser and Hugh Jennings, Philadelphia National league club; Malachi Kittredge, Boston National league club; Charles Irwin, William Donovan and William Dahlen, Brooklyn. The only New York player at the hotel was Bowerman, but he did not attend the meeting.

Hartzell of the Philadelphia American league club, who left the Chicago National league club after repeatedly assuring the president that he would be with him another year, offered a motion that all players who have jumped contracts in 1902—nothing was said about the year previous—be expelled.

The motion was passed, although no action will be taken until the association has ample proof upon which to act. The list of players is said to include all the men who recently came from Baltimore to New York and Kelley and Seymour, not one of whom is a contract-jumper. Miller and Wolverton are also included. The first contract jumped by Wolverton was a National league contract.

Thomas Daly, who went back on the agreement made between the National league and the players' association, was re-elected president; "Harry" Davis of Philadelphia was made secretary, and Frank Donohue of St. Louis was re-elected treasurer.

"Tom" Loftus and Frank Dwyer, two American league managers, were in the hotel. No American league players jumped while the meeting was in session.

P. T. Powers, president of the Association of Minor leagues, sent the following telegram from Niagara Falls: "The officers of the National Association of Baseball leagues, in session here, extend greeting and express willingness to cooperate upon any reasonable basis that will tend to preserve the best interests of baseball."

After the meeting Frank Donohue, the treasurer, made the following statement:

"Everyone of the delegates here today agreed that there was no use in a man joining this organization, getting all the benefits in the way of procuring counsel when he was in trouble, and being generally protected in his rights and the interests of his pocket, and then jumping his contract. There is no one here today who will stand for McGraw, McGinnity or any other man who has jumped a bona-fide contract."

LEEVER'S FINE PITCHING.

It Was Responsible for the Defeat of Patsy Donovan's St. Louis Team Saturday.

The champions succeeded in getting good and even with Patsy Donovan's bunch of St. Louis players on Saturday for their two stinging defeats earlier in the week. Clarke decided it was a case of where the Pirates must win, and he accordingly put Schoolmaster Sam Leever on the slab.

The pedagogue twirled the finest kind of ball, and had it not been for the extremely tired feeling manifested by Jack O'Connor, he would have accomplished a shutout for the champions. The final score was 5 to 1. Not until the fourth inning did the Donovanites wake up, and then it was only for a moment. Bradley secured the only hit of the game. Score:

HAHN WAS A PUZZLE.

Red Twirler Proved an Enigma for Chicago—Crawford's Fine Batting.

CHICAGO, July 27.—Cincinnati easily won today's game by bunching hits. Hahn was a puzzle except in the third inning, when a base on balls, a single and an error gave the locals their only run. Threatening weather kept the attendance down to 3,000. Crawford's batting was the feature. Score:

GIANTS FINALLY WON.

Defeated Newark Team of the Eastern League in an Exhibition Game.

NEWARK, N. J., July 27.—The New York National league team and the Newark Eastern league nine played an exhibition game here today, which the visitors won by a score of 6 to 2.

Miller, formerly of the Detroit American league club, pitched for New York and was very effective. A sensational catch by Dunn in right field was the feature. Score by innings:

BIKE RECORDS GO BY THE BOARDS

NEW RACING MARKS MADE AT THE VAILSBURG TRACK.

Ten-Mile Professional Race Was Most Sensational of Events and Was Won by Fenn Over 39 Other Competitors. Hurley Also a Winner.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEWARK, N. J., July 27.—Probably the most sensational bicycle racing ever seen in this country was witnessed by about 6,000 people at the Vailsburg track today. World's records went by the board in both the amateur and professional races.

The most remarkable race of the day came in the 10-mile professional, and Handicapper Weimore had so arranged the field that the men were kept moving from the firing of the pistol.

Of the 40 men who started 25 were left in at eight miles. The riders were in three bunches after going a mile and the back mark men did not catch the leaders until five miles had been traveled. The pace did not slacken to the finish, where W. S. Fenn won by a length and a half in the fastest time ever made in such a competition.

His time was 21:53 1-5. Both M. L. Hurley, the national amateur champion, and Walter Smith broke amateur records. Hurley won the quarter-mile race in 28 2-5 seconds. The best previous time was 29 seconds, made by M. Coffey.

Walter Smith then started in to knock out some more records behind motor pace. He used the pacing machines belonging to Metz, which made the world's record in Brooklyn of a mile in 1:16. Smith made one mile in 1:26 2-5 and a little later started again and broke all amateur records from one to five miles. The old records held by Joe Nelson were as follows: 1:28, 3:03 3-5, 4:36 4-5, 6:11 1-5 and 7:49. Smith rode the five miles in 7:18 3-5. Summary:

Quarter mile amateur, open—Won by Marcus L. Hurley, New York A. C.; "Teddy" Billington, N. J. A. C., second; M. T. Dove, New York, third. Time, :28 2-5. World's amateur competition record.

One mile professional, open, for non-first prize winners at Vailsburg—Won by Iver Lawson, Salt Lake City; W. A. Ruitz, New Haven, second; Joe Newkirk, Chicago, third; John Bedell, Lynbrook, L. I., fourth. Time, 2:08 1-5.

One mile amateur, tandem paced against time—Won by Brooklyn; time, 1:26 2-5. World's amateur record.

Five-mile amateur tandem paced record—Walter Smith, Brooklyn. Times: One mile, 1:25 2-5; two miles, 2:53 1-5; three miles, 4:22; four miles, 5:51 3-5; five miles, 7:18 3-5. All world's amateur records.

Two-mile amateur handicap—Won by M. L. Hurley, New York A. C. (scratch); Oscar George, Brooklyn (seven second); George Gusson, Newark (scratch), third; Teddy Billington, New York A. C. (scratch), fourth. Time, 3:14 3-5.

Ten-mile professional, handicap—Won by W. S. Fenn, Waterbury, Conn. (scratch); Menus Bedell, Lynbrook, L. I. (240 yards), second; David Krebs, Newark (160 yards), third; "Pug" Special Hill, Newark (180 yards), fourth; Tom Butler, Cambridgeport, Mass. (160 yards), fifth. Time, 21:53 1-5.

MONROE AND BUTLER.

Will Be Principals in a 25-Mile Motor-Paced Race at Colosseum Track.

Benny Monroe, who is to meet Nat Butler in a 25-mile motor-paced race at the Colosseum track in Allegheny tonight, arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday morning. Butler will arrive early this morning.

The race will be 25 miles straightaway, as this contest has proved to be more popular than when the races are divided into heats, and it makes the riding faster. According to the reports from the riders both men are in excellent condition for the race and as they are pretty evenly matched it will be closely contested.

Butler is Monroe's chief opponent, is one of the best known pace-followers on the tracks in this country and is among the leaders in the cycle racing world. He is also well-known as a sixday racer and last year at the Madison Square garden was easily the winner of the race, although he and his partner McLean lost a lap which they had gained, through a decision of the referee.

The entries for the two-thirds of a mile amateur handicap are: Ralph Jackson, C. A. Smith, Youngstown; C. Hartman, Harry Brown, Percy Brown, Harry Bupp, David Molseed, W. G. Hasley, Frank Hoffman, J. S. Pauline, William Hoffeldt, J. Wesley McCue, C. B. Leonard and Charles Reel. The entries for the one-half mile novice are: S. Pauline, Frank Hoffman, David Molseed, W. C. Burgum and Ralph Jackson.

Baseball Magnate Dead.

WINNECONNE, WIS., July 27.—Matthew Killilea, the well-known baseball magnate, died here today after an illness of several months. Though he had not been confined to his bed until three weeks ago, it was known that his illness was fatal.

Burns Wins Wrestling Match.

Davenport, Ia., July 27.—"Farmer" Martin Burns won his wrestling match with Charles Wittmer of Cincinnati this afternoon. Burns gained two falls, catch-as-catch-can, Wittmer winning the first fall, Graeco-Roman.

Connellsville to Play Dawson.

CONNELLSVILLE, PA., July 27.—(Special.)—The Connellsville baseball team is trying to arrange for a match game with Dawson, now champions of Fayette county. The latter team gained its title Thursday at Uniontown when they played a game with Dunbar for $100 a side. It is probable that a game will be arranged with Connellsville for the same stake.

Rockfords Get One Hit.

The champion Hillsdales defeated the Rockfords by the score of 14 to 0. The features of the game were the batting and fielding of Hillsdales, and the pitching of Masula, who gave but one hit. Score:

DUEL WITH KNIVES.

Aged Veteran and His Enemy Cut Each Other Until Death Is Expected for One.

CUMBERLAND, MD., July 27.—(Special.)—A duel with knives occurred yesterday afternoon at Back Creek, W. Va., between Robert Ridgeway, a one-legged, one-eyed Confederate veteran, and David Weaver, a farmer.

Weaver was so badly injured that he cannot recover. He received a wound that required 20 stitches to cover up.

Ridgeway was also badly stabbed. He received a number of cuts on the face and body.

STATE AND NEIGHBORHOOD.

GREENSBORO—Frank Hollyfield of Mt. Pleasant was committed to jail today on a charge of embezzlement. It is alleged that Hollyfield embezzled funds of the Union supply company.

LATROBE—The famous old Eleventh regiment, Pennsylvania Reserves, will hold its thirteenth annual reunion and campfire in Latrobe October 15 to 17.

IRWIN, PA.—The Russian and Slav coal miners have caught the vacation fever. During the past week a local steamship booking agency ticketed 28 of these excursionists for the old country, the limits of their stay being about six weeks.

NEW CASTLE, PA.—Edward, the 16-year-old son of James Flynn of Neshannock township, was drowned in the Shenango river yesterday. He was towing a raft of timber from the shore, when the raft was caught in the current and Flynn was pulled in and drowned.

Two Children Burn to Death.

PHILADELPHIA, July 27.—Nellie McTague, aged 5 years, and her brother William, aged 3, were so badly burned today that they died in a hospital a few hours later. The children were in bed and it is supposed were playing with matches.

Weekly Review of Market Quotations

PITTSBURGH PRICES FOR FARM PRODUCTS

Advances Made in Hay and Grain—Few Changes in Groceries and Produce.

There was a continuance last week of the very strong conditions surrounding the hay situation, quotations growing firmer all week, with figures now ranging from $18 to $19 for No. 1 timothy, and these prices very firm. Wet weather has interfered with the cutting of new hay, and old stock is very limited in quantity.

Both car and shelled corn are higher than at the opening of the week, and oats have gone forward in price two cents a bushel. Millfeed is scarce and higher.

In grocery staples there have been but few changes. Flour is quoted at about the same figures as on last Monday, with prices perhaps a little easier, and subject to quiet shading by some jobbers, though wheat has not fluctuated a great deal, and quotations are mainly steady. Sugar and coffee are held at same prices as for several weeks, and navy beans, while maintaining a firm hold on the advanced position taken a few days ago, are no higher. Canned tomatoes are dull.

Dried fruits are affected by the appearance of new packs, which are now on the market, and are influencing the situation in a downward direction. Other canned goods are unchanged. Dried and evaporated fruits are without special feature, although some strength has been developed in the prune situation on the Pacific coast by reports of poor crops in Europe.

Potatoes continue to come forward in liberal quantities, and prices are lower, fancy Rose stocks sells for $2 25 a barrel, and other varieties are as low as 55 cents a bushel. New apples are firmer. Cucumbers are higher. Home grown cabbage is slightly lower. Tomatoes are higher; home grown stock is now in the market, but has been coming in but slowly on account of the cool, wet weather. Green corn and string beans are unchanged. Canteloupes show very little difference in quotations, while watermelons have been scarce and higher. Huckleberries and blackberries are coming forward in steady quantities, and prices are but little from day to day. Currants are still offering at prices about the same as on last Monday.

Tropical fruits have been in steady demand, with oranges, lemons and bananas unchanged. Pineapples are lower. California peaches and pears are lower, while apricots are about done. Plums and prunes from the Pacific coast are about the same as a week ago, with quotations as follows:

Butter remained unchanged at Elgin last Monday, and was plentiful all week, with quotations easy. Cheese is very firm at unchanged prices, and eggs are steady to firming. It was thought that egg receipts would loosen up and show some increase during the week, but in this dealers were disappointed.

Receipts of live poultry have been moderate, and prices are not materially changed from those of a week ago. Old hens are scarce and very fancy prices are reported as governing some transactions.

Hay, Grain and Feed.

Receipts bulletined Pennsylvania lines, 5 cars; Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 1 car hay; Western railroad, 6 cars hay, 1 car oats, 1 car corn. Total receipts, 13 cars.

Drygoods Market.

NEW YORK, July 26.—The present week in drygoods closed quietly. Some little buying for fall account was indulged in by buyers from away houses, but the majority of those in town are looking over stocks before purchasing. Next week is expected to develop more activity along fall lines. A very fair amount of summer trade is still in evidence with sellers, and until this subsides fall goods will not be pushed.

Treasury Statement.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Today's statement of the treasury balances in the general fund, exclusive of the $150,000,000 gold reserve in the division of redemption, shows: Available cash balance, $138,880,197; gold, $98,979,149; silver, $28,363,336; United States notes, $9,356,987; treasury notes of 1890, $1,041,183; national bank notes, $17,815,653; total receipts this day, $1,380,463; total receipts this month, $41,764,428; total receipts this year, $41,764,428; total expenditures this day, $1,269,009; total expenditures this month, $32,080,009; total expenditure this year, $32,080,009; deposits in national banks, $124,985,875.

The Treasury and the Banks.

NEW YORK, July 26.—(Special.)—In redemption of checks drawn by depositors of gold at the Seattle assay office today's official records show that the sub-treasury paid out yesterday $15,000. Total payment by banks for the week, $2,600,000. Balances on the day's transactions, $92,000, paid by government to banks, against $480,000 similarly paid for the corresponding period a week ago.

Imports and Exports.

NEW YORK, July 26.—The imports of drygoods and merchandise at the port of New York this week were valued at $10,420,488. Exports of specie aggregated $410,320 silver and $2,857,124 gold. The imports of specie were $113,028 and $41,517 silver.

LAST WEEK'S SALES SHOWED INCREASE

The market on the Pittsburgh stock exchange during the week ending yesterday was the best in some considerable time, the sales being about 1,000 shares larger than the preceding week, and nearly 8,000 ahead of the same period a year ago. The tone was generally quite firm and the sentiment bullish, though weakness cropped out in some spots. The close was dull. The total public sales were 28,831 shares of stock, $80,000 bonds and 2-3 rights. These figures compare with 27,256 shares of stock, $28,000 bonds and 1 warrant during the preceding week, and 20,830½ shares of stock and $20,000 bonds the same week last year.

The following statement is a complete summary of the publicly recorded transactions on the Pittsburgh stock exchange during the week beginning Monday, July 21, and ending with Saturday, July 26, 1902. It shows the total sales, opening, highest, lowest and closing prices, and the changes in the selling prices as compared with those of the preceding week and the nearest ones to that time:

PRESTIGE OF IRON CITY IS THREATENED

Inadequate and Inferior Water Supply May Keep Off New Industries.

MILLS EMPLOY EXPERTS

Prof. Phillips of Western University Employed by River Coal Corporation—Col. Roberts Talks of Narrowness of Filtration Scheme.

Pittsburgh's industrial prestige is threatened by its inadequate and inferior water supply. The schemes of filtration, according to the ideas of many engineers, cannot meet this problem, contemplating as they do only the domestic supply, with a plan to reduce consumption by installing meters for all consumers, and entirely disregarding the needs of the manufacturing interests now dependent on the sulphuric waters of the two rivers.

COL. T. P. ROBERTS.
A well known engineer who has devoted much study to Pittsburgh's water supply.

This river water eats out boiler tubes and there is not an important mill or furnace along the two rivers that does not employ a chemist to determine the hour of the day for taking the water supply when the percentage of sulphuric acid is least.

Capt. S. S. Brown, director and head of the transportation department of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke Company, has taken steps to get a better supply of water. The company has been harassed by too many explosions on its tow boats, which could in no way be accounted for by a defect in the mechanism, or dereliction of duty on the part of the steamer engineers.

What Sulphuric Acid Does.

The reason for these explosions has usually been traced to eaten-out boiler tubes, which were unsuspected. The cause of their being eaten out was the high percentage of sulphuric acid fed into the waters of the Monongahela river by the many industries along its banks.

This condition has led to the employment by the Monongahela Company of Prof. Francis C. Phillips of the Western university, to act in expert capacity to meet the problem so far as is possible.

This very thing of sulphuric water, when the rivers were low, was the greatest factor in the last great period of freight congestion which so hampered the tonnage production of the Pittsburgh district mills. Inadequate terminal facilities were, of course, in part responsible for the freight congestion, but an important factor was that the greater proportion of the motive power of the railroads was disabled through burned out boiler tubes.

Only Solution in the Mountains.

The solution to the entire matter, as offered by expert engineers, is to go to the mountains before the railroads have contaminated this supply and give Pittsburgh a sufficient supply of pure water for decades to come.

It is predicted that unless Pittsburgh at once reaches out for a sufficient pure water supply, it will stop the clustering of manufacturing interests here. Every new blast furnace erected means the consumption of something like 9,000,000 gallons of water daily, and each of these heightens the sulphuric impurity of the water now available from the rivers.

At the same time the completion of the slackwatering of the Allegheny river and the additional industries that will spring up on its borders will make filtration of any character almost a useless expenditure. It will not take out the sulphuric acid and the percentage of this will be constantly increasing and rendering the water unfit for domestic or factory use.

Col. T. P. Roberts' Views.

Col. Thomas P. Roberts, government engineer, in discussing the water problem yesterday, said: "With the encouragement of the city it would be only a matter of a short time till a corporation would undertake to bring fresh and pure mountain water to our doors from the almost inexhaustable supply of the Indian creek and Laurel creek shed in Somerset county, or the larger supply from the shed of Black Lick and adjoining streams in Indiana county.

"The Black Lick supply could be made to flow 115,000,000 gallons of water a day. It would serve for Greater Pittsburgh. It would entirely eliminate the narrow idea of the filtration people, that only the immediate supply of the domestic consumers of Pittsburgh proper should be met, and this by cutting off the so-called waste through a costly system of metering all supplies.

"While our manufacturing interests are spreading out, they are adding to the activity of their water supply, which the filtration commission is not considering. These manufacturing interests are the factors in our present importance and prospective growth most to be considered. They suffer now from the inferior water supply.

Vigorously Opposes Meters.

"In my movements along the rivers this has been forcibly brought to my attention. Chemists are employed at nearly every plant, whose duty it is to determine at what hour it is best to draw the water supply. At some times there is in a gallon of water at Port Perry two grains of sulphuric acid and again there is as high as 10 grains, and this will be constantly increasing with the additional industries that are springing up.

"I am not averse to the plan to meter the very heavy consumption of water, but it would be useless expense to place a meter for every domestic consumer and tax the inlet of water at each house to a minimum, as suggested by Allen G. [illegible] filtration commission's engineer, I consider it a shame to tear up other pavi[illegible] streets of asphalt and [illegible] domestic consumers. Only squeeze the do-

"If the new Continental [illegible] ter Company, said to control the Indian Creek supply, cannot be considered a factor for supplying Pittsburgh with better water, there are other sources. The Black Lick district of Indiana county is a better one by reason of offering a heavier supply, and besides Indian creek would not serve alone. It would be necessary to run a tunnel of six miles from Laurel creek to give a sufficient supply. With this the conduit to Pittsburgh would be about 45 miles long. A similar line with some additional reservoirs would accomplish the same thing from the Black Lick region.

"The expenditure would be from $15,000,000 to $18,000,000. I believe that it could be accomplished for the smaller figure. It is time for action. Pittsburgh must not stand by till the railroads have networked with their branch lines all of this territory and impregnated the water supply with the sulphur which will put it out of the question.

Enterprising People Ready to Act.

"I know of people who would take up such an enterprise with the sanction of the city. A syndicate should be encouraged so that it could in the first two or three years earn about 7 or 8 per cent on its securities, and then arrangements should be made so that Pittsburgh would get its water supply at near cost. There should also be held a long-term option on the property of the water company.

"Pure water is of vital importance to our city and the city should not make the supply a matter of revenue. There should be no 'squeeze' anywhere. It is time that our community awakens to the exigencies of the situation.

"The $250,000 a year now paid for pumping would go a long way toward meeting the stock dividends or bond interest of the necessary investment to give us pure mountain water. Our water supply should never be considered as a source of revenue to the city. I realize that the city, with its heavy fixed charges, cannot well bond itself to undertake this project of going to the mountains.

Water Shed of 240 Square Miles.

"At Black Lick and the streams of Two Lick and Yellow Creek, immediately adjoining, there is a water shed of about 240 square miles. While there are railroad extensions going in that neighborhood the reservoir could easily be so placed as to secure pure water. About eight miles above there is the Vintondale coal operations, but these are no such factor as a single little tin plate mill or furnace would be in charging waters with acid.

"Another thing, the proposed expenditure of over $800,000 for metering the city could in the main be diverted to meeting the expense of this pure water supply, anticipating our needs for many years.

"It is certainly a narrow conception of the matter which plans on a reduction of our water supply. What is necessary is to consider a vastly increased supply. The question should be taken up on its merits. No filtration scheme will avail. The filtration people talk of reducing consumption from 60,000,000 to 30,000,000 gallons. This is pure folly.

Ideas on Filtration Revised.

"Some years ago I was in favor of making a natural filter at Six Mile Island, but I realize now that this would be inadequate, and it could not eliminate the acid, which will be coming in increased amounts from above on the Allegheny river. Moreover, it would supply a very hard water and this is not desirable. Except for the hardness of the water it might be advisable to pipe our water from Lake Erie. This, over the route of the survey of the proposed ship canal, could be done in a conduit of 130 miles. The divide elevation of 327 feet would have to be overcome.

"From the Black Lick creek source the natural route of a water conduit would bring it past other headwaters, where supplemental reservoirs could be constructed and charged with pure water. The Loyalhanna is one of these and there are others. By means of these, if there were ever a break along the conduit leading from the main supply, this supplemental supply would be available. It would, of course, be so at all times if necessary.

Manufacturing Interests Overlooked.

"Under the necessary charges for water, under the proposed systems of filtration and the accompanying meters, the supply would never be available for manufacturing interests which in a few years will have a crying need for pure water.

"There is this need now, but the filtration people have been going along obstinately, holding that the manufacturing interests could take care of themselves as they have done. A syndicate should undertake the supply of mountain water at a price far below that at which the city can pump it.

"Cognizance of the growing importance of our manufacturing community should be taken. We are destined to soon become a community of 1,000,000 people. We continue to develop our natural resources in oil and coal, and all this tends to contaminate our water.

"The Indian creek supply drains about 125 square miles and the Laurel creek 112 miles additional. The two would serve us, but there remains the better and greater supply from the Black Lick creek region.

Great Water Demand at Clairton.

"As an instance of the growing drain on our water supply, all of which should be pure water, there is the enterprise of the Crucible Steel Company of America at Clairton, which alone will soon be using half as much water as all Pittsburgh receives through the Brilliant pumping station.

"About two years ago I made plans for a coagulation of sedimentation system, employing iron oxide, which would give the city a supply of 60,000,000 gallons daily, but this would not eliminate the acid. In the European cities it is a different proposition. They do not consume the amount of water per capita that we do by long odds. There, the consumption is from 30 to 40 gallons for each person. In America it is from 150 to 230 gallons, and Pittsburgh is one of the heaviest per capita consumers. Instead of 230 gallons daily, if our manufacturing interests were considered, we would figure our per capita consumption to 400 gallons daily.

"We have too many water companies. They could be consolidated to advantage. If consolidation is good for our traction, banking and other interests, why not for the water interests? These combined could easily handle the problem of a supply of pure mountain water for Greater Pittsburgh."

CONTRACTS OF $30,000,000 ARE ON THE BOOKS

Pressed Steel Car Co. Has Work to Keep It Busy For Many Months.

GOOD NEWS FOR THE MEN

The Ten Thousand Workmen Can Rejoice at the Prospect—Improvements Now Making Will Greatly Increase Output of the Plants.

President F. N. Hoffstot and other officials of the Pressed Steel Car Company have practically closed contracts in New York for several thousand cars. Details as to these new orders are withheld, but it is understood that with them the company has on its books contracts that will aggregate $30,000,000 and will keep all works of the company busy till well into next year. One of the officials of the company returned yesterday from New York, where the new orders are being placed.

The contracts mean much for the more than 10,000 employes of the company and their families. Additional orders are expected to be closed in a short time.

Improvements costing many thousands of dollars are being made at the car plants. At the Allegheny plant 500 additional horse power boiler capacity is being installed. At McKees Rocks a 1,000-ton flanging press has been ordered from Philadelphia. The McKees Rocks plant will also get a 120-inch shear and a large amount of additional machinery, the idea being to increase the plant's present output very materially.

120 Cars Per Day.

The average daily car production of the company has been brought up to about 120 cars since George E. Macklin has resumed his work as general manager. This is considerably less than the output will be after the improvements are completed, when the company will build over 36,000 cars a year. The cars range in length from 25 to 28 feet for the smaller hoppers, to 42 feet for the largest box cars. A fair average would be 35 feet a car. If all the cars turned out in a year were coupled together in one train and started east on the Pennsylvania railroad the first engine would be pulling into Harrisburg as the last car of the train was passing through Braddock, 238 miles distant. Averaging 50 cars to a train, the company will turn out in a year 720 trains.

The average output of the company at present is from 115 to 120 cars per day. These make two solid trains of about 60 cars each. The new orders came from railroads all over the United States and as the name Pittsburgh is prominent on every car, this city is being extensively advertised wherever the cars run.

Some Big Orders.

For the Pennsylvania railroad the company is turning out 2,500 50-ton hopper cars for the coal trade, to be delivered in November and December. These are being built at Allegheny. The Pennsylvania railroad also ordered 725 drop-end and drop-side gondolas to replace missing numbers or cars, that have been wrecked. When a wooden car is destroyed on the Pennsylvania it is replaced by a new steel car, bearing the same number. In this way the equipment is kept up and the carrying capacity constantly increased.

The car company has just finished 1,000 steel underframe box cars for the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. These cars have a capacity of 80,000 pounds, and the last of the order will go out today.

In the Allegheny plant the company is turning out 60 cars daily to fill an order for 4,000 50-ton hoppers for the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. These are delivered in solid trains. Cars built for the roads that do not enter Pittsburgh are sent to different points for cargo destined to the foreign road. They are loaded and thus made to earn money carrying freight instead of being hauled empty.

TWO MINERS KILLED.

Explosion of Gas Occurs Near McCurtain, I. T.—Two Other Men Seriously Burned.

M'CURTAIN, I. T., July 27.—Two men were killed and two seriously burned by an explosion of gas today in one of the Sans Bois Coal Company's mines, one mile west of here. The dead are:

ANDREW DAZELL.
JAMES BROWN.

The men were in the mine, 900 feet from the opening when the explosion occurred. It was followed a moment later by another of less force. It is presumed the gas was ignited by one of their lamps.

The men were placing timbers to support the roof of the mine at the time.

FEAR OF ASSASSINATION.

All Windows to Be Closed During Kaiser's Parade in Posen.

BERLIN, July 27.—Various Berlin newspapers assert that the warnings to Emperor William against going to Posen, Prussian Poland, for the army maneuvers to be held in September, have had the effect of causing an order to be issued that the festivities be confined to a strictly military character and that all windows be closed along the line of march of the procession at Posen.

There is something wrong if you have a ravenous appetite, and yet keep growing weak. Dr. D. Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge removes such condition and brings strength.

Some Wonderful Examples of Clearance Prices on Fine Linens.

The very first of the news that we desire to impress upon women is that telling of Linen Bedspreads. The opportunity is at hand to buy the finest of these fine Spreads for much less than they usually sell for.

$17.50 and along to $50—reduced from $25 to $75—Handsomely Embroidered Linen Bedspreads that have been used as samples, and have become just a bit mussed. But as Spreads are never used without first going through the laundry this mussed condition is of little moment.

Other Linen values in this department are as follows:

Hemstitched Linen Pillow Cases at these reduced prices:

20 x36 inches, $1.00 pair, sold for $1.35.
21 x36 inches, $1.65 pair, sold for $2.00.
22½x36 inches, $1.50 pair, sold for $1.85.
72 inch Bleached Damask, $1 a yard, sold for $1.25.
72 and 81 inch Bleached Damask, $1.25 a yard, sold for $1.50.
Bleached Damask Napkins—24x24—$3 a yard, sold for $3.75 and $3.50 a yard, sold for $4.50.
Pattern Cloths—2x3½—2x4—2½x2½ yards—$4.50 each sold for $6.

More Good Silk News.

A tremendous lot of silks go out of their respective departments every day. Trifling prices make heavy selling.

All of this season's selections in Foulards and Printed Liberty Satins, including black and white, that sold for $1 and $1.25 a yard, are now reduced to 65c a yard.

A large variety of 75c and 85c Foulards have been reduced to 50c a yard.

Peau de Crepe and Satin Alaska, that sold for $1.25 a yard, have the remarkable reduction of 75c a yard—making the price now 50c a yard.

Fancy Black Taffeta Meteore—a $1.25 quality—is now reduced to 85c a yard.

French Black Taffeta—the $1 quality—has been reduced to 75c a yard.

R·I·PANS

I have railroaded for the last twelve years and in that time I have lost months of time from dyspepsia. I always was a sufferer, spitting up my food, sour stomach and pretty nearly each day heartburn, but now I can chew and eat anything, fat and greens without any inconvenience or trouble. Many times I have had to leave my car on a second or third trip on account of my trouble, but now I am a new man. I cannot speak too highly of Ripan's Tabules.
